Grades report: no more cum?

The committee states that "there and advisors unsatisfactory on internal grade reports" as "no..."

While reluctance to fail students - suggests that grades of I and OX be failed subjects not be listed on lead to unacceptable ambiguity, for internal and external records. It is hoped that changes in the awarding of F grades to failures should be listed serving. Failures should be listed in the information contained.

PAGE 2 FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1974

While the use of incompletes, a credit-bearing grade is granted, a student to recover from unwise overloading, the report favors changes in grading to accompany these recommendations by the Committee on Grading to accompany these policy changes. While the committee approves the late drop option as "a reasonable mechanism for a student to recover from unwise overloading," the report favors changes in registration which would "stress the idea that subject selection and "easiness of registration is a process that should be completed early in the term."

While he declined to comment on expected faculty response because of the diversity of opinions, Kaplow expressed the belief that "the package of recommendations will lead to a more meaningful grading system."
