Women swimmers drop first meet

MIT's women's swimming team opened its 1974-75 season on a losing note, dropping its initial meet to a strong squad from the University of New Hampshire, 76-19, in Alum Pool.

Although receiving fine performances from some of their freshmen, the MIT women were simply no match for UNH. Taking first place in every event as well as second place in most, the UNH swimmers, who were completing their season with the meet, displayed the experience gained from a full season of racing.

Leading the scoring for MIT was Sophy Solyar, who contributed six points with two second place finishes. Peggy Page '76 (with five points) and Tina Kangas '78 (with four) each also added a second.

For the Engineers, swims were simply a matter of who could stay with the UNH swimmers. The meet was a good test for MIT's young swimmers and coach Jack Mosinger '75.
