Program
The Boston University Summer Term Public Communication Institute provides an intensive opportunity for professional career discovery in the field of communication—journalism, public relations, broadcast, advertising, advanced media policy, planning and production. The six week institute combines lectures, seminars, hands-on workshops and field trips, all with strong emphasis on integration of communication theory and practice. Each student will produce at least 6 projects in research, writing and media that responds to real world communication problems. Lectures and seminars will be given by more than 25 visiting professionals including: journalists, editors, writers, photographers, publicists, film-makers, art directors, client account executives, on and off camera television personalities, media producers, advertising and public relations executives, government and regulatory specialists, and advanced communication technology experts.

Courses
The Public Communication Institute offers a twelve-credit hour curriculum consisting of three four-credit hour courses. The courses are "Print Media and Editing", "Speech Communication", and "Writing for Visual Media". Each course will be supported by special sessions in communication theory. Classes and workshops will analyze, plan and produce solutions to demanding and important problems facing professional communicators.

IRAN PANEL TO REPORT NEXT WEEK

- Recommending appropriate modifications in those procedures, including, if appropriate, a standing committee of the faculty to review such programs.

- Other faculty members of the committee, according to Simonides, are: Professor Morris Cohen, Materials Science and Engineering; Associate Professor D. Quinn Nills, Management; Professor George W. Rathjens, Political Science; retiring Dean of the Graduate School Irwin W. Sizer; and Professor Louis D. Smolin, Electrical Engineering. The two student members of the committee are Kevin Miller '77, a student member of the Committee on Educational Policy, and Olivia Ann Gerken, a member of the Committee on Graduate School Policy. Simonides said that members of the CEP and CGSP were sought for the student positions on the ad hoc group so that those two standing committees could have active liaisons with the committee.

"Many students were interested in being on the committee, and had contacted me to apply for the posts," Simonides said. "But we felt the contact with working committees was important."
