Police Blotter is a compilation prepared by Campus Patrol to report crimes occurring in the MIT community.

The Campus Police investigated a complaint of two subjects attempting to obtain a "loan" of $40.00 from a newly arrived freshman. The money would be returned to the rightful owner after the recoverer made a trip to Boston. The subjects were intercepted on the upper level of the Science Center by two Campus Police officers, both of whom were properly trained and equipped. The recovered money was returned to the rightful owner.

Two local residents of the Cantab City were apprehended by the Campus Police carrying an empty refrigerator out of Building 39. TheGoing Change that they were working was uncertain. The officers failed to trace the subjects to the local police station where they were booked. Later, the machine was returned to the rightful owner.

Two officers on routine patrol observed a man pushing a bicycle out of Baker House. The person was questioned by the officers and failed to come forth with a satisfactory explanation of the recent possession of the bicycle. The situation was terminated by the culprit being arrested for failing to convince the police that he was a student. The same subject was observed again later in the East Campus, should be aware of persons soliciting in the building.

Residents of the dorms, particularly in the East Campus, should be aware of persons soliciting magazines from room to room. Reports were received of these solicitors entering unlocked rooms and when they were approached by the occupants they claimed to be selling magazines. Any observations of these persons should be reported immediately to the Campus Police.

Your attention should be directed to the Information Digest published by the Campus Patrol. It is designed to alert the community to the presence of solicitors - the solicitors of magazines and other salesmen. In order to reduce the risk of victimization the bulletin offers simple rules-of-thumb outlined below:

- Always carry some pocket change, so you can call for emergency help if you need it on a public phone.
- Be aware while you walk, so you can detect potential danger before it might strike.
- Remember there are many safeguards if you have done your part. Have an alarm, and tell the proprietor to call the police.
