Several in the audience said that they were afraid that the presidential race would become a walkway for the incumbent President Ford, little affected by the Watergate backlash. Shapp, by contrast, concluded his remarks with his one promise of the evening: "If I am... chosen as the Democratic standard-bearer, and if I... should be elected President, I will never forget the first obligation of that office: to improve the quality of life of the American people.

The panel discussion is a prelude to a meditation workshop on basic meditation techniques to be held on Sat., March 13th.
