India changes goals

Weiner enumerated the feelings expressed by each block of society toward the emergency. Feelings in India range, he said, from the business group's sympathy with the emergency policies of the government to the extremely critical attitude of political scientists and economists who control the government.

Between these extremes Weiner said, lie the sympathetic university administrators, the civil service bureaucracy who "gain the most, because of the change in power from politicians to civil service," the journalists, who are quite antagonistic to the government and the emergency, since they are the ones hit hardest by the censorship, the organized youth groups, who have expanded their activities during the crisis, and the judiciary, whose powers have been restricted during the emergency.

Weiner went on to describe the major structural changes in India's administration, saying that it is "reasonably clear as to what institutions are diminishing in importance." The Federalist structure's importance is declining as the power is becoming more centralized and authoritarian.

Weiner's talk was given to an audience comprised primarily of Indian MIT students. Weiner said that it was "inappropriate to talk to a group of Indians about what's going on there," but that he simply wanted to give his own impressions of the climate in an India losing any representational structure it may have once had.

The crisis and the judiciary, whose powers have been restricted during the emergency.

FREE PREGNANCY TESTS
ABORTION - GYNECOLOGICAL CARE
MALE & FEMALE STERILIZATION
individually counseling with an individual counselor.
A LICENSED NON-PROFIT MEDICAL FACILITY.

We've just cut the cost of driving by $2.00
Present this coupon for $2.00 off your next rental at LOCAL AUTO RENTALS.
Located at 107 Mt. Auburn St.
(Harvard Sq. at Mobil Station)
661-7700

The insurance helpline: 876-0876.
What's "No fault?" How much is apartment insurance?
We'll give you the answers to all your insurance questions without giving you a sales pitch. Just call Dick Ramsey any weekday.

And you can also get free, 25-50% off on most brands. All cartons with our regular price of $1.50. For delivery, 30 day exchange on defective units. Call Pola, 261-7460 (kept in store).

In this issue:

* Award nominations are being accepted for Compton Stewart, Murphy, and Baker Awards. Deadline is April 3. For more information, contact Dean Robert Holder, Room B-10, 2-8574.
* MIT Project MUG will meet at 7pm twice in 16-310.
* The Department of Aeronautics and Astronautics is holding its Annual Spring Picnic on Sunday, April 3 at the Draper Laboratory Flight Facility. In addition to food and conversation, several Department members will present working demonstrations of equipment related to their research. This will include model rockets, a small magnetic suspension system, and laser holography. All Graduate and Undergraduate seniors and juniors are invited. First Year Students and Undesignated Sophomores are invited. Transports will be provided. For reservations, call Miss Martel at X-4626 (R 4-1879) or David Ackerman at X-1572 (R 33-222) by noon, April 2, 1976.

IMPERIAL EARTH
A NEW NOVEL BY ARTHUR C. CLARKE
Take a break from the interstellar, join Duncan MacIntyre, ambassador from Zafet, on his visit to earth for America's quincentennial celebrations. Arthur Clarke's 40th book ever is a delightful blend of mystery, humor, romance and suspense.

Published by Harcourt, Brace Jovanovich
An alternate selection of the Book-of-the-Month Club
A main selection of the Science Fiction Book Club.