The Police Blotter is a report written by the Campus Patrol on crimes, incidents, and actions on the MIT campus each week.

Theft

Two young men in the Kresge Parking Lot aroused the suspicions of a foot Patrol Officer late Monday night, who decided to question the pair. Spying him heading in their direction the two quickly fled. Arriving at the scene the Officer found a '69 Pontiac with a door forced open, a "Krook Lock" broken and the ignition popped.

Equipment Hard Hit

A rash of larcenies in an east campus area building has resulted in the loss of several IBM Selectric typewriters, a valuable portable dictaphone and other expensive equipment. Each of these crimes involved equipment that was not bolted down, even though almost every article stolen was ideally suited for bolting. Once again we remind everyone of "Operation Boff-Down," a crime prevention, and a very inexpensive way of making life an awful lot harder for the larcenous of heart.

A telephone call to x3-6157 will start you on your way to getting office equipment securely bolted down.

End-of-Term Reminder

Dormitory residents are reminded that departure time for students is a vulnerable period for thefts to occur. We urge your continued vigilance during this period to avoid a last minute rip-off. Continue to be alert for dormitory intruders. While packing up do not leave your personal belongings unattended with open doors. Do not load a car with your belongings at night, leaving it unattended on the street for an early morning departure.

92 motor vehicles were stolen in 1975, with Memorial Drive the most popular location. Last but not least, if you intend to stop somewhere for a visit while on your journey is otherwise interrupted, avoid the "missing person" panic by a thoughtful phone call.

Second Taiwan rally held

By Gerald Radack

A rally against the training program in incelurial guidance for Taiwanese engineers held yesterday — the day after the release of a Faculty committee report recommending that the program be "revised by substituting distinctly non-military techniques" or cancelled — drew about half as many students as a similar rally held April 21.

The faculty committee that released the report was the AD Hoc Committee on an International Institutional Commitments, headed by Professor Philipkins Robins and set up last fall to examine MIT's international relations after the faculty was dissatisfied with the report of a previous committee, headed by Professor of Political Science Charles Kittelberger.

Teller Paul E. G. Gray was talk to the rally, but changed his mind when he heard speaker Deborah Wood '79 say that the later President Jerome Wester wrote to the Robbins committee after he received its report. "Sounds like bullshit," the letter said that from what Wood and Gray now know, "we cannot come to the conclusion that military purposes are the objective of the program.

After hearing Wood's remarks about Wester's letter, Carter said that although the Robbins committee report was a "victory for the student body," he would be skeptical about the administration's intention to "tour the program" to eliminate possible dangerous technologies, which Wood announced in his letter. "The program has already been revised once," Carter said. "After the summer, the State Department raised serious objections for the program. The changes made by MIT were puny ones."
