SACC loses appeal

(Continued from page 1) above from the meeting. Although Moore asserted that a different motion could have made a few votes' difference, he stated that he "would guess that we wouldn't do anything, that we'd try to live with the decision as it now stands," but that "nothing's settled yet." He added, though, that since SACC agreed that it could not function under the current decision, "we'll think of something else."

LSC Publicity Director Dombrock, who was asked about possible effects the ruling would have, said that SACC would definitely be allowed to show "Waterfront." "To Kill a Mockingbird," "The Wild Bunch," and "Easy Rider" would almost certainly be rejected. In addition, "Hall to the Chief" could be shown; it is not affected by the ASA ruling, as it is being screened on Election Night, a Tuesday. "I think they (SACC) were definitely affected by us," Dombrock said, explaining that LSC's projected attendance had not been for the last three films, which were shown to about 300 to 400 students on "Blazing Saddles" and "101 Dalmatians" last two weeks," he explained.

At the meeting, the two sides' arguments ran in many of the same lines as previous meetings, with SACC claiming the right to show an alternative movie series, and LSC concerned about the effect of the two series entering the market would have to students, although they would be able to provide a quality movie and lecture program.

Coop refund checks available next week

By Stephen Beers

Record profits and sales add up to give Harvard Cooperative Society members an eight percent patronage refund when they collect their checks on Oct. 15. A total of $1.2 million will be distributed among 66,000 Coop members, according to General Manager Howard Davis, who said that the refund can be picked up at the Harvard Coop on Harvard Square starting Oct. 13. Members who wish to pick up checks at the Tech Coop must fill out a short form available at the Service Desk there.

Total sales, profits, and member refunds have been increasing steadily since 1970. Davis said, with this year's total sales of $26 million amounting to a ten percent increase over last year and a 62 percent gain over the past six years. Coop purchasers bought $7.5 million worth of books during the 1975-76 academic year, Davis added, making books the Coop's biggest moneymaker.

This year's refund, the largest in ten years, represents the profit made by the Coop on members' purchases, which accounted for 95 percent of the total sales. Davis stated that the remaining profit, after taxes, goes toward the Coop's total net worth.

Davis declined to predict the percentage of next year's refund, but he stated that he saw no reasons why profits should fall. He stressed, however, that increasing refunds may soon reach their peak and stabilize in the next few years.
