Seven lucky for Beaver nine
By Tom Curtis

If you do not believe that seven is a lucky number, take a look at what happened to the varsity baseball team Friday on Briggs Field. Playing Groton-Juter College, the Beavers scored seven unearned runs on seven Graham errors, hit seven singles, and stole seven bases in a seven inning game. MIT also was by seven in the final score 8-1.

The victory ended the Beavers’ fall practice season. Combined with Thursday’s loss to Massachusetts Bay Community College, the win set the Beavers’ final record at 4-6.

MIT was in command from the outset Friday as Jay Cooprider ’77 scored in the first on a Dan Sundborg ’77 sacrifice fly. However, this was only a prelude to a second inning Beaver explosion. Consecutive singles by Tim Garverick ’80, Joe Krauskes ’79, and Phil Bagnacki ’78 were instrumental in the four-run inning.

SAILORS take 2nd

Dinges, Tufts, and Intercol., Elliot Rosen ’79 topped the Dark division, Gary Smith ’78 was seconq in B-Division, and Critch took third in the Intercol division.

In an invitational at BU on Sunday, MIT placed fifth. Steve Ryan ’77 with crew Sue Verba ’79 handled the blustery conditions well and won A-Division, Frank Fay ’79 and Gerry Swinton ’79 sailed in B-Division.

MIT also entered a regatta for the rafting races because of extreme weather conditions. MIT’s Krauskes ’78 and Larry Gordon ’78 combined to hurl a three-hitter for MIT.

Thursday, at home against Mass Bay, the Beavers found themselves on the losing end of a 4-2 score. Four MIT errors led to three unearned Mass Bay runs.

Mass Bay tallied first in the second as Scott Fleming doubled and scored on a throwing error. MIT briefly evened the score in the third as Tom Griffin scored on a Mass Bay throwing error. The visitors regained the lead in the fourth as Eddie Mitchell singled, stole second, and then scored on a double by John Weisman. Mass Bay added two more runs in the next without getting a hit. Two walks and two errors allowed Jack Barry and Charlie Athas to score.

In the ninth, MIT’s Krauskes singled home Bob Marcus ’78 to make the final score 4-2. Still, this was an improvement for the Beavers since they had been shut out 5-0 and 10-0 by Mass Bay in earlier games.

The Beavers now take four months off before beginning spring practices in February and March. The regular season will begin in late March with the team’s annual trip to Florida.
