Amherst slips by cagers

By Glenn Brownstone

When a team has a good night and does everything correctly in the game, as MIT did against Amherst Wednesday night, it's usually true that the key player for the other team is not the guy you thought would give you the most trouble.

So it went with Amherst's senior forward David Protop's 22 points, five of which were free throws as the end of the game that sealed MIT's dooms, jump shots, and three pointers paced the Lord Jeffs to a 62-58 win over the basketball Beavers.

Last year, as you may recall, Amherst forward Jim Rehnquist scored 50 points, a school record, in leading the Lord Jeffs to a 92-86 win over MIT. Well, the mighty have fallen. Apparently just going through the motions.

Squash grabs 3 straight

The varisty squash team took three consecutive matches in their record to 5-7 Saturday, the team defeated the Harvard Crimson in the morning and rolled over Amherst 8-1 in the afternoon. The team continued its winning streak Wednesday night, toppling Tufts 6-3.

The men's and women's gymnastics teams are still searching for their first wins. After losing to Dartmouth, January 27, in their opener and to Yale last Saturday, the women's team fell to Rhode Island Wednesday evening, despite strong efforts by Elaine Sears '79, who took first on the uneven parallel bars, and Joan Hugghins '77, who took second on the balance beam. The men's team also dropped a meet to a very good Yale team last Saturday, 140-124. The team did manage to improve the vaulting event.

The men's next home meet is tomorrow at 2pm against Count Guard. The women will be home against Harvard at 7pm against Norwich.

After last week's second in the Great Northeast, the varsity wrestling team slipped to New York Maritime and Central Connecticut in a 145-31 loss last Saturday. The grapplers bounced back Wednesday, however, trouncing Boston College 53-12. Sturgin for MIT in that meet were Norman Hurstson '79 who pinned his opponent in 30 seconds and co-captain Steve Brown '77 who took one minute to pin his BC foe. The men's teams next outing is against Williams at 2pm tomorrow in the DuPont wrestling room.

The women's fencing team ran their record to 6-3 with a 10-6 victory over Rhode Island Wednesday. Captain Judy Austin '77 was undefeated for the Engineers, winning both of her bouts. The rifle team took the University of Alaska Wednesday 214-203. Today the team fires in the West Point Invitational. The women's basketball team staggered through the Brown Invitational last weekend in Providence. Brown proved to be an inhospitable host, rumbling past MIT 61-59. The Engineers also lost to Chicago 62-57, Penn 64-29 and Swarthmore 31-23.

After being overpowered by Tufts last Wednesday, the MIT men's and women's swimming teams were defeated by University of Lowell, 83-30, in a meet this past Saturday. In the process, freshman John Dietken shattered a school record and Jay Colbert picked up his second pool record.

Even though the Tufts meet resulted in the Beavers only loss so far this season, the team produced several memorable races. Senior John Dietken and Jay Colbert visited the University of Lowell. Dietken clocked a 10:36.3 for a new pool record and Dietken swam a 1:43.3 in a 200 yard freestyle. High scorers for the Beavers were Van Etten with 17 points and Peter Maimonis with 16. Bill Swalski tallied 16 for the Lord Jeffs.
