Brandeis swimmers no trouble for tired Engineers

(Kansas '80 on her heels to take second and third in those events. By Friday's meet with Brandeis, an anticompetitive streak had set in. The weekend before, the women had competed for the first time in the New England Regional Championships. Out of 30 teams, MIT placed 19. Fabricius, Konza, Hooper, the freestyle relay team, and the medley relay team scored points for MIT. Konza placed seventh out of a field of 13 swimmers in the 200-yard breaststroke. The first 15 finishers of each event were awarded a certificate.

In addition to the general tiredness of the team, the chlorine level in the Brandeis pool was unacceptably high. The women could hardly swim 50 yards without goggles to protect their eyes. As a result, women started long races in the water so the goggles would not come off. Despite the loss of time in starting this way, MIT still demolished the Brandeis team 84- 44. After losing the opening 200- yard medley relay, MIT's Fabricius and Irving bounced back to take the 200-yard freestyle 1-2, and Konza and Marcin finished 1-2 in the 100- yard individual medley. Bell placed second in the 50-yard backstroke. Brown, trying out the breaststroke again after Wednesday's meet won that event. Fabricius won the 50-yard butterfly and finished second in the 100-yard butterfly. Hooper won the 1-meter and optional diving with Lori Lamel coming in second. Konza won the 100-yard backstroke and 100-yard breaststroke. Brown won the 100-yard freestyle.

The team will lose only three seniors due to graduation this year. As changes are good that the women will continue their winning ways in the 17-7-8 season.

Who are you, telling us how to run our business?

It takes a lot of confidence to come fresh out of school and begin telling us how to do things.

On the other hand, it takes an unusual company to provide the kind of environment where that can happen, but that is exactly the environment you'll find at Scott Paper.

We search for people who have the ability to respond to challenges and think for themselves, those with the initiative and desire to seek alternative solutions, the skill and courage to communicate the results in better ways and who aren't afraid to express their ideas.

At Scott, we admire an aggressive company. You can make your own opportunities with us and we'll prove it.

Contact your placement office for information.
