But not only the men's and women's sailing teams won hotly-contested regattas this past Sunday. The men won the Jack Wood Trophy at Harvard while the women captured the Captain's Cup Trophy.

The field for the Jack Wood Trophy regatta traditionally consists of MIT, Harvard, Brown, Coast Guard Academy and Dartmouth, the year, however, these schools competed in place of Dartmouth. The trophy was donated by the first MIT sailing master, Jack Patriots to shut out Todd and Jets, 24-0

That Monday night overtime victory by the Browns climaxed the Captain's Cup at Tufts. The Trophies regatta traditionally consisted of MIT, Harvard, Brown, Coast Guard Academy and Dartmouth; that year, however, these schools competed in place of Dartmouth. The trophy was donated by the first MIT sailing master, Jack.

Wood, who specified that the regatta consisted of two varsity, one JV and one freshmen divisions. Wood also wanted to encourage as many people as possible to skipper, therefore, all divisions are coed.

Aided by the steady winds which prevailed throughout the regatta, MIT and Harvard tied for first going into the last of the five sets of races. Despite the fact that one boat capsized and another boat was disqualified for hitting a mark on the course, the combined effort of all MIT skippers won the regatta. Lenny Dolhert '79 and John York '80 won B-division while Jeff Gardner and David Kuller won the freshwater division. Gary Smith '78 and Elliot Rosen '79 took second in A-division. Eric Greene '79 and Bill Dalton '80 placed third in the JV division.

In the Captain's Cup, the MIT women beat out Tufts by one point to win the regatta. All day MIT, Tufts and Brown were shifting positions for first place, but Could it be that the 49ers will score a touchdown this week? Could they have to score one eventually, although two may be asking too much.

Early every year, Garo Yepremian blows a game for the Dolphins by missing a handful of field goals. The clunker will be a muffled extra point.

Minnesota 17, Green Bay 15

The Vikings will score only enough to keep from losing. Bud Grant will have an ulcer by the last game.

Richard Todd last looked to the football field. he was laying in a regatta at Dartmouth on his back. He's going to have to get used to it, because that's where he'll be most of the year.

Wake me up when this one's over. This game will be called a great defensive battle after its over because it's a lot nicer than saying it was a boring contest with no offense shown by either team.

This won't be as good a Monday night game as the one last week, but it might be fun to keep track of how many times Howard Cosell repeats a) how great Ken Stabler is and b) how ugly Otis Sistrunk is.

Tech Hifi offers you 70 brands. And soundrooms to play them in.

In most stores that sell stereo, you're not exactly encouraged to play the equipment on display. In fact, many stores have big signs that tell you "Don't Touch the Merchandise!"

But at Tech Hifi we invite you to play! We have 70 brands of quality components we have on display. Not just look at them, actually play them. If you like what you hear in our soundrooms to compare all the stereo equipment you want to hear.
