Eagles will take an early lead by losing to the Giants in the swamp of New Jersey. What a way to go!

Baldwin 31, Miami 24 — The Eagles are going to burst the high-flyers' bubble by handing them their first defeat.

Dallas 44, St. Louis 29 — The Cowboys are going to do all but eliminate the fading Cardinals from playoff contention by knocking them three games out of first place after only four weeks.

Buffalo 17, New York Jets 14 — The poor Jets. They may now have visions of grandeur after their upset of the Patriots, but the Bills will put them back into proper perspective.

Minnesota 22, Detroit 19 — The Lions will lose close, but get no cigar. The Vikings seem to enjoy keeping games in suspense; at least they've done it a lot this season.

Oakland 37, Cleveland 23 — This will be a heartbreaking loss for the Browns, particularly on their home turf. Their crushing schedule may now start to take its toll.

Pittsburgh 23, Houston 7 — A victory by the Steelers in this game at the Astrodome will greatly enhance their playoff hopes.

Washington 31, Tampa Bay 27 — A surprising Falcons are going to stick it to the defense-heavy Bucs. Could Atlanta be this year's Cinderella team?

Chicago 30, Los Angeles 20 — If you can manage to stand "Good Ole Howard," this should be yet another good Monday night matchup. And who said ABC has no voice in deciding who plays on their telecasts?

New Orleans 31, San Diego 27 — This game is going to prove to be an offensive display by both teams, but the Saints will prevail over the Chargers at the Superdome.

Atlanta 16, San Francisco 13 — The surprising Falcons are going to stick it to the defense-heavy 49ers. Could Atlanta be this year's Cinderella team?

Chicago 30, Los Angeles 20 — If you can manage to stand "Good Ole Howard," this should be yet another good Monday night matchup. And who said ABC has no voice in deciding who plays on their telecasts?

Your father's going to be shocked when he hears about this.

Can you help it if the things they do in Harvard Square are inconceivable in Kansas City?

After all, if Cambridge Savings will actually pay you to open a checking account, why not take advantage of it. Even if the folks back home think it sounds crazy.

Open a Cambridge Savings NOW account. The checking account that pays you interest on your checking balance. It may startle 'em a bit in Stillwater, but it will be good for both of you.
