Reg. material due date moved

...of students have turned in material ahead of the end of the term, and many of the rest didn't bring it in until registration day.
Smith also noted that the number of registration changes after registration day has decreased steadily in recent years.

He added that the number is not expected to change significantly in February, in spite of the new due date.

Student opinion varies on the feasibility of the new due date, although it is generally unfavorable to the change.

One student commented that "it makes things much more difficult to think about this term's classes and next term." Another student said, "There's no way I'll really have time to look through the catalogue and find courses."

Some students, however, saw no extra burden. "It only takes an hour to do anyway," pointed out a sophomore.
