Boston schools to make up snow days — Boston School Committee Chairman David Finnegan announced yesterday that pupils in the city's public schools will make up the 10 days lost due to a late winter and February blizzards by going an extra half hour each day. Although the state has waived the 180-school-day requirement for this year, Boston has joined Cambridge and other cities in taking this measure.

Consumer gathering T — At Faneuil Hall yesterday, several hundred consumers told MITEA Chairman Robert Kiley that the state's planned cutbacks in office supplies would mean the difference between life and death for small businesses. Kiley said that it will take time and millions of dollars to fix up the MIT.

Introducing a distinguished Icelandic bird who has the answer to all those confusing airfares to Europe.

The bird you see here is a Puffin. A small thoughtful bird, not very beautiful, but an excellent indicator of the wind off Iceland. Icelandic than just Iceland.
