Chem frat revived after thirty years

By Tom Chung
Editor's note: Tom Chung is a member of Alpha Chi Sigma.

The Alpha Chi chapter of the Alpha Chi Sigma professional chemistry fraternity was reactivated this year after 30 years of inactivity. The MIT chapter disbanded in 1948 when the national fraternity refused to grant membership to blacks.

The reactivated MIT chapter began March 18 with the initiation of its first pledge class followed by a dinner attended by the chapter's active members, members of other college chapters, representatives of the national fraternity, and guests.
