hours for their upcoming Rush parties.

On Thursday morning, freshmen began to arrive on campus, largely oblivious to the behemoth becomes hospital and bus-

The Campus Police extend a warm welcome to the newly arrived members of the Class of '82. We hope your time in Cambridge is pleasant and enjoyable.

With our Headquarters located in the basement of the Union (W1-215), we patrol the campus 24 hours a day, seven days a week. We are always ready to provide emergency police and ambulance services. Our officers, all of whom hold commissions as Massachusetts Police Officers, circulate constantly throughout the MIT environs. If you have any worries or concerns about your safety while in residence, we urge you to call us, and we'll be there to assist you.

Theft

The sad fact is that thieves abound in the Boston area, and in order to keep yourself secure, you must take some steps to protect your belongings.

1) Never leave personal belongings unattended while in residence. If you are not using your room, be sure to lock your door and turn off the lights.

2) Review the relations of the standing faculty committee and the coupling of educational program, including admissions, academic advising and personal counseling, discipline, athletics, campus environment, and the counseling of the Office to the work of the standing faculty committees.

3) Review the relations of student support areas and recommend appropriate changes or improvements in the organization of these areas and their interaction with the DSA Office, guided by the review in the next section.

4) Take whatever steps are necessary to protect the leadership into place.

In his memo to the DSA office, Gray said, "We are fortunate that Professor Halfman has agreed to be acting dean. He is superbly qualified to lead the office." Eisenberg also expressed optimism with his successor, saying, "The DSA office now has the best possible leadership, both with Professor Halfman as dean and with Mr. Simonides leading the review."

The review, which has been under way for several months, is expected to be completed within the next six months.
