Sailors blow into new season

By Leonard Dolhert

Editor's note: Leonard Dolhert '79 is a member of the sailing team.

The MIT Sailing Teams have started the fall racing season with good finishes in dinghy (small boat) events. On September 9 and 10 MIT finished fourth in a field of twelve in the Harry Anderson Trophy hosted by Coast Guard. On September 17, the freshmen team raced in the Women's New England Single-handed Championships hosted by MIT, qualifying three out of four entrants for the finals. Due to wind conditions on Sunday, only one race of the finals was held. The regatta will be continued on October 8.

The team did not fare as well at Yale during those long hours of study.

The MIT Sailing Teams have qualified for the finals. Due to improved weather conditions, we hope to continue the regatta.

THE TECH

Sailors blow into new season

By Leonard Dolhert

Editor's note: Leonard Dolhert '79 is a member of the sailing team.

The MIT Sailing Teams have started the fall racing season with good finishes in dinghy (small boat) events. On September 9 and 10 MIT finished fourth in a field of twelve in the Harry Anderson Trophy hosted by Coast Guard. On September 17, the freshmen team raced in the Women's New England Single-handed Championships hosted by MIT, qualifying three out of four entrants for the finals. Due to wind conditions on Sunday, only one race of the finals was held. The regatta will be continued on October 8.

The team did not fare as well at Yale during those long hours of study.