Hockey Team looks strong

By Lou Odette

The MIT varsity hockey team opens the '78-'79 season against Tufts Thursday. The Engineers have put together a strong team again this year and are looking for their third straight winning season, a possible contrast to the three straight years in the early '70's when MIT lost every game it played.

Last year's 12-6 record was the best in recent memory, and in their third straight winning season, -a notable contrast to the '78-'79 season against Tufts Thursday. The Engineers open three straight years in the early season, -a notable contrast to the winning season, -a notable contrast to the winning season, -a notable contrast to the MIT's strong offense, while defensively the team is more solid than in any previous year.

MIT shines in 'Foot'

By Richard Auchus

The top two MIT women's boats finished third and seventh in the "Foot of the Charles" Fresh crew regatta on Nov, 18th. Based on an average of the times of the top two boats from each team, MIT's performance earned them second place overall; the team also had the best average time with all the boats considered.

The freshmen lightweights' top boat finished tenth overall but second for lightweights with a time of 14:33. The freshmen heavy-weight boat placed seventh overall in 14:25.68; however, theirs was the only boat in the top seven with no previous rowing experience.

All things considered, it was a fine performance by the entire team. The results of the lightweight contest are particularly deceptive. The teams have three more years to gain experience and to achieve their full potential. All that they need is some incentive and dedication.
