Non-commercial radio has local music

In the Greater Boston area, non-commercial FM radio is a viable alternative to the other commercial free hour mentality of commercial radio. By law, these stations are clustered at the low end of the FM dial, 88-92 mhz, and in Cambridge a good receiver can tune into about seven of them: WGBH, WHRB, WMPF, WTRS, WZBC, and WBRU. All of these stations publish regular program guides and will mail you one free or for a small donation. If you will send them a postcard. The effort is especially worthwhile if you are searching for programming, such as local music, which is unavailable commercially. Finally, we feel WTRS provides good, innovative programming and could provide excellent programming with improved listener feedback. Please write, call, or visit the station (room 50-030, Walker basement). A $1350 stipend will be awarded to an MIT Junior for programming, such as Mason During and Jeanie Stuhl, and the McGarrigle Sisters.
