Baker victorious in IM basketball
By Gordon Hall
The "A" league IM basketball playoffs ended last month with Baker Bashi-Bazouk defeating SAE in the final 43-40. Mark Hollingsworth '81 led the scoring for Baker.
Six teams were in the first, round of the "A" league playoffs which were single elimination. DH, Theta Chi and Chocolate City were eliminated in the first round. The second round was double elimination between SAE, Baker, and DelKE.
The low point of the playoffs was the behavior of the DelKE team. The problems began in the first round of the playoffs when Lou Piazza '79 got into a fight with a Chocolate City player. Both were suspended for a game by the IM ExecComm. This meant that Piazza could not play in the next game against SAE. In the SAE game, the DelKE's only had six players at the game. Two players fouled out which brought them down to four players on the court — which is permissible by IM rules. Greg George '79, the DelKE captain, fouled out. He then told the refs, John Lowell '80 and Steve Askhehmane '81, the IM Basketball manager, that they had "refed a really shitty game." He was given a technical foul. He then called Lowell "a fucking asshole" at which point he was given another technical and was ejected if he said anything else the game would be forfeited. At this point, SAE was leading 48-34 with six minutes left. George then told Lowell that he would "kick the shit out of him." Lowell called the game. DelKE was given a forfeit fine, and George was suspended for the rest of the season. DelKE lost their next game to Baker 63-34.

Track runs over Bates, Bowdoin loses to UNH
By Lew Bender
Editor's note: Lew Bender is a member of the varsity track team. The track team's spring season got underway with a triangular meet against the University of New Hampshire and Bates at UNH. The following weekend the team was at home taking on Bowdoin. Overall the team competed well, defeating Bates and Bowdoin, while falling to UNH. The scores in the triangular meet were UNH 88, Mt. 55, Bates 9, and in the dual meet the score was Mt 93, Bowdoin 70.

Gusts of up to 20 miles an hour and rains made the conditions had enough in both meets to force the pole vault indoor. Mt won the events against Bowdoin and captured eleven seconds and twelve thirds. Winning for Mt were Steve Sifferlin '79 in the hammer (155.2") and discuss (141.9", Kevin Wade '79 in the triple jump (428"), Mike Piazza '79 in the pole vault with a jump of 12", George A. Sivar '79 with a shot put of 40", and Ron Addolph '81 with a time of 51.2. in the 400-meter dash, as well as captains Jeremy Dunlay '79, who won the intermediate hurdles (59.9), and Barry Bowen '79, who won the steeplechase and 3000-meter run. Outstanding performances were turned in by Norman Topoleski '79 in the 800- meter run (1:58.8) and Dean Koutsoubis '82 in the 100-meter dash (23.0).

Look Before You Leap.
If you are graduating with a Bachelor's or Advanced Degree in electrical engineering, computer science, or computer engineering, you have probably interviewed with a number of companies.

But before you leap, you ought to look at a company that in one year increased sales 40% to $380 million, that promoted one out of every five employees, and that introduced a new product every 2.12 years. The company is Data General. The year was last year. If you want to be there this year, look before you leap.

Advanced CPU Architecture Development
Advanced Systems Development
Intelligent CRT Design
Microprocessor Development
Diagnostic Software Engineering
Microprocessor Software Development
Mechanical Design
Analogue Design
Data Base Management
Systems Data Communications
Computer Networking
Language and Computer Design
Operating Systems Development
Software Quality Assurance

Call or write for an immediate interview. In Massachusetts, call collect 481-7043. Out of State, call toll-free (800) 225-7348.
Ask for Cindy Barnett, ext. 4507, or Joe Duggan, ext. 4535. Or write to us direct at General Corp., 15 Tumpke Road, Westboro, MA 01581.

An equal opportunity employer M/F.