Candidates decry attack on Hakala

As to legality and the By-laws, this year Jon Hakala and Dave Lingelbach were completely within their rights when they asked the General Assembly to extend the deadline for all candidates, Jonathan Hakala and Dave Lingelbach would still have had their original statement and activity record appear at the voting booth.

6. The April 3 General Assembly meeting had already been scheduled by the General Assembly during the March 20 General Assembly meeting. Jonathan Hakala did not call the General Assembly into emergency session. The General Assembly itself voted over two-thousand to go into emergency session to consider the elections question. Since Jonathan Hakala is a candidate for election, he stepped down as chairman of the General Assembly and General Assembly Floor Leader Arnold Contreras chaired the meeting.

In summary, Jonathan Hakala and Dave Lingelbach were completely within their rights when they asked the General Assembly to extend the deadline for submitting a final activity record and a final candidate statement for all candidates.

On Being An Axle, Not A Cog.

If you have ever worked for a truly large company, one with several thousand employees, then you probably have a pretty good idea of how it feels to be a cog: either. We do have what counts -- a critical mass of talent and experience.

Small companies have their problems too, problems of limited resources, whether at AS&E they matter. No, AS&E is not one of the larger companies around, but We're not the smallest.
