Campus officers praised

gunmen is an MDC matter and MIT's role was limited to "responding to a radioed request for help by the MDC." Byers called the CP's actions "an outstanding piece of police work." Campus Police Chief Olivieri, who conducted a review of the incident immediately after its conduction early Saturday morning, said the actions of Cox and Nelson "were in accordance with the Campus Patrol's firearms policy" and praised the officers' conduct in the field: "They reacted in a professional manner under extremely stressful and threatening conditions."

The suspects' car, when examined by the MDC, was found to contain two ski masks, drugs, ammunition and a variety of jewelry, including diamonds.
According to Byers, the MDC is investigating the possibility that the gunmen had been engaged in burglaries that evening in Beacon Hill and panicked when they were approached by the MDC car.

Errata

The Tech regrets a typographic error made in an article in the August 29 issue on dormitories becoming coed. The sentence should have read "Random Hall will now provide an entire single-sex floor for non-commons women of all classes."

"Everything I tasted there was excellent, and several dishes had that vivid clarity of flavor that first attracted us all to Szechuan food, and that we haven't noticed as much in recent years."
