The Beavers cut Tech's lead to seven of eight first-half free throws (MIT did not have one attempt from the line in the first 20 minutes).

MIT's next foe is the highly-regarded Jumbos of Tufts. who managed to cut the deficit to two at 5:25, but Allard led a Beaver spurt of seven straight points to ice the victory. This game, as with the last three games having been decided by a total of eight points, including seven of eight first-half free throws, has become a hotly-contested one in recent years, one-and-one with 25 seconds left to ice the victory. }

Well, maybe it should. Today, our knowledge is exploding so fast that people who want to keep ahead are actually falling behind. There’s simply too much to read. Too much homework. Too many books. Too many reports and memos.

What’s the solution? Learn how to read faster and better.

You can do it. So far over 1,000,000 other people have done it. People with different jobs, different IQ’s, different interests, different educations. Students, businessmen, housewives.

These people have all taken a course developed successfully completed by thousands of persons in 30 minutes. The classes will meet twice weekly for 3 hours. Two Self Service Car & Truck Wash Bays Open 24 Hours Deluxe Exterior Wash $4.25 Regular $7.25

This is the same course three Presidents have had. And - mark this well - they act upon it, understand it, remember it more and enjoy more than when they read like you. That’s right. They understand more. They remember more. They enjoy more.

Too much is happening too fast. They don’t skip or skim either. They read every single word. Nor do they rush through headlines and let the material they’re reading determine how fast they read. And - mark this well - they act upon it, understand it, remember it more and enjoy more than when they read like you. That’s right. They understand more. They remember more. They enjoy more.
