A gastronomic illusion.

Which pizza is bigger?

If you said the smaller pizza is bigger you are right. The bigger looking pizza is an ordinary pizza (the kind you see). The more the dough is rolled out, the bigger the juice. The smaller looking pizza is Uno's original deep dish pizza. It's rich, crisp crust is filled in a deep pan and filled with up to twice as much of what people love most about pizza...the finest, freshest meats, vegetables, cheeses, and spices. For example, the "Numero Uno" pizza (the works) is only 12" in diameter, but weighs about 5 pounds, with over two pounds of meat and cheese alone.

Buy one Uno pizza...get twice as much good food—at our restaurant or in your home—you can't get more good value for your money than at Uno's.

* We think your pictures are too important to be-around out at the rate of 10,000 an hour! Don't you?

When you bring your roll of color print film into a drugstore or camera store, it will probably be processed on a high-speed "automatic" machine that operates at speeds of up to 14,090 prints an hour! That's good for the drugstore but it's bad for your pictures.

At PHOTOQUICK/CAMBRIDGE, we know that a machine simply cannot do as good a job printing your pictures as a well-trained person who takes pride in his work. That's why here at Photquick, we respect our negatives before it's printed, and we make corrections for color balance and density. Corrections that probably won't be made by high-speed automatic equipment.

Bring in your own roll of color print film to PHOTOQUICK/CAMBRIDGE by 10 AM. You'll get your pictures back the same day, and they'll look very, very nice.
