Lebanese army takes control of camps: peacekeeping force returns to Beirut — Lebanese army troops moved into Palestinian refugee camps in Southern Lebanon this week in the wake of mass executions of Palestinian civilians by Lebanese Christian militia. US President Ronald W. Reagan announced last evening American Marines will join French and Italian troops returning to maintain peace in West Beirut. While the Lebanese army began the task of removing the bodies of hundreds of victims from the Shatila and Sabra camps, Israel's Labor Party, several Israeli newspapers, and hundreds of Israeli demonstrators called for the resignation of Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Defense Minister Ariel Sharon. The Israeli government admitted allowing Phalangeis into the refugee camps to search for guerrillas, but denied responsibility for the massacre.

Nation

Engineers' contract talks detailed — A strike by 26,000 railroad engineers continues to disrupt train service throughout most of the United States. The engineers are seeking pay increases to maintain their traditional position as the highest-paid members of a train's crew. Only rail service operated by Conrail is presently unaffected by the strike — including Amtrak inter-city passenger service in the northeast corridor.

Sports

Pro football season sacked on fourth down — The NFL Players Association executive committee voted 9-0 yesterday to interrupt the professional football season with a strike against team owners. The players seek a percentage of television and other revenue earned by the teams.

Weather

A series of weak storms making its way up the coast and a continuing flow of humid air off the Atlantic will keep skies cloudy today and tomorrow. Periods of rain and drizzle will break the humid monotony, as high temperatures reach only into the 60's.
