Sailors 4th in New Englands

By Martin Dickau

The men's sailing team finished fourth of 13 schools in the New England Dinghy Championships on the Charles River Saturday. MIT (160) was behind Tufts (139), Boston University (149), and Harvard (152), all of which are ranked among the top five teams in the nation by Yacht Racing and Cruising magazine. MIT was unranked going into the competition.

Baseball

The team beat Curry Friday 16-3 but lost three other games over the weekend, suffering a 2-0 loss to Brandeis Thursday and a 5-3, 14-7 doubleheader sweep by Tufts Saturday.

Crew

The men's heavyweights' win was powered by skipper Peter Quigley '83, who defeated Harvard All-Americans Brian Keane to capture his division. Quigley, crewed by Jean Fitzmaurice '86 and John Cross '84, accumulated only 53 points to Keane's 59 over the two-day event's 18 races. The victory marked the first time in Hatch Brown's 16 years as sailing coach that MIT has won a division at the championships.

Team captain Bruce Klein '83 and his crew of Steve Paradis '85, Linda Maxwell '85, and Steve Ulh '84 also did quite well, placing sixth in their division.

The Engineers' finish qualifies them for the National Collegiate Sailing Championships June 7-10 in Corpus Christi, Texas.

Candidates for BS or MS degrees in Computer Science or Electrical Engineering

Citibank has a system programmer position in a development lab environment located in Florida.

Please send resumes to:
Deborah Quinn
University Relations
Citibank
399 Park Avenue
New York, NY 10043