Colby speeds by soccer, 3-0

By Arthur Lee

A large hostile crowd, no MIT fans, and a team from Colby College combined to head men's soccer a 3-0 shutout in Steinbrenner Stadium.

The Engineers fell behind about 12 minutes into the game when Colby's Ted Goodrich scored the first goal off of a Brit Guarnotta corner kick. The visitors had a wide offensive edge, converting their hosts 17 to 4, but the goal keeper Mike Schoen '87 repeatedly sacrificed his body, making seven saves. The improving, scrappy MIT defense also held firm, keeping the deficit at one.

The MIT defense did not fare as well in the second half against the speed of Colby's offense. Pretty passing plays and deep penetrations in front of the goal resulted in the second Colby goal 13:30 into the period.

The Engineers responded with some good offensive hustle from Victor Guzman '87, Joe Pemberton, who may only play four more times, and Mark Johnston '84. The MIT goal was shot on fourteen times. Goalies Schoen and Robert Noecker '85 had to make nine saves in order to keep the deficit from growing larger. In sharp contrast, the Engineers only managed seven shots on Colby's goal despite some good hustle from individual team members.

MIT coach Walter Alessi in assessing his squad's loss commented, "The team has improved a lot since the WPI game. Our defense was good, but the speed of the Colby players gave us problems."

The coach felt that the morale of the team, its recent performance of the team were positive factors despite the loss. "Team spirit is now very high. We played tough teams like Bates and Babson, and we did very well against them." The Engineers held Babson, an area Division III power that is in contention for the NCAA national tournament, to a scoreless tie.
