Frisbee places in top eight in NE regionals

by Frank Revi

ALBANY, N.Y. — The MIT Frisbee Club established itself as an ultimate frisbee power in the Northeast Collegiate Region when it finished among the top eight teams in the regional tournament held at the State University of Albany Saturday and Sunday. The Beevers placed 13th to 10th in a 13-10 game which shocked the University of Vermont. The Beevers took the national tournament May 12-13 at Tufts University.

In their first game, the Beevers faced the Brockport Dogs in the first game of the second round loss to Syracuse, while UVM lost to Central Connecticut. The Beevers’ third round 15-9 victory was closer than it should have been, because Central took advantage of the “house code” of ultimate frisbee on many occasions. The victory allowed MIT to advance to the eight-team double elimination portion of the tournament, while MIT was uninspired in its second round loss to Syracuse, winning 12-13 at Tufts University.

The Beevers faced the Brockport Dogs in the first game of the second half of the games. The Dogs used their strategy of wearing out games in the second half of games. The Beevers’ 15-9 win did more than it should have been, because Central took advantage of the “house code” of ultimate frisbee on many occasions. The victory allowed MIT to advance to the eight-team double elimination portion of the tournament.

MIT speedster Peter Ahumeda ’85 unleashes a deadly backhand in the Frisbee Club’s 13-2 victory over Worcester Polytechnic Institute last week.

FRIDAY, MAY 3

The Lowell Lecture Series features “Lorenzo Dow Baker: From Cape Cod Fisherman to Boston and Caribbean Entrepreneurs” by Dr. W. Randolph Bartlett, professor of history, Cape Cod Community College. The lecture will be held at 7 p.m. in the New England Aquarium. Free and open to the public.

What is Lily Tomlin doing in Steve Martin’s body?

When rich, eccentric Edwina Cutwater died, a crazy guru tried to transport her soul into the body of a beautiful young woman. But the guru goofed. And Edwina’s soul has accidentally taken over the entire right side of her lawyer, Roger Cobb. He still controls what’s left. Now, Edwina and Roger are living together — in the same body. He’s losing his job. He’s losing his girlfriend. And he just can’t seem to get her out of his system. No matter how hard he tries.

STEVE MARTIN & LILY TOMLIN

ALL OF ME

A STEPHEN FRIEDMAN Production. A CARL REINER film. "ALL OF ME"

Starring VICTORIA TERRY as Victoria Terry. Screenplay by PHIL ALDEN ROBINSON. Adaptation by HENRY OLEK. Based on the song "TOO BAD." Directed by PATRICK WILLIAMS. Produced and distributed by UNIVERSAL Pictures. Premiere presented by A UNIVERSAL Pictures Production.

FREE SCREENING

courtesy of Kodak

Kodak film. Because time goes by.