What Next?
It seems to be the big question now that graduation is around the corner, but you may be one of the many who haven’t decided yet.

If you’re interested in a career in systems design and programming, you should consider the exciting opportunities available at Pegasystems, Inc.
Pegasystems is a small and growing company with a short but successful history and an even brighter future. We build application software products for the banking industry, and are looking for exceptional people with strong programming skills.

We’re offering an unusual opportunity to be creative in a challenging state-of-the-art environment. As the company grows, you will have the satisfaction of growing with it and knowing the importance of your efforts in building a successful enterprise. It’s a chance that may not come again.

Don’t let it pass you by. Call or write to:
