Letter from the Editor

Today is a special occasion, with 1672 students receiving degrees from the foremost scientific educational establishment in this country. Underneath the bright facade, however, a grim specter is undermining the unique character of this school. By stripping students of their personal rights, MIT is being transformed into a dull and soulless institution.

The Administration has demonstrated a total lack of concern in the opinions and desires of the student body by continuing to ignore their concerns. The Minster of Peace

The Undergraduate Association Finance Board currently receives $6,000 a year from the Office of Student Affairs to support the organization of individual student groups. The actions and attitudes of the MIT administration have contrived to rob me of my privacy and my voice, which I need to express my opinions.

Unfortunately, the situation wasn't settled. Several weeks ago when the SA proposed a new student group, several students sought to show their support for the group by creating a new student organization. However, the SA is not the only organization that can be formed to express a student's opinions.

From Mass. Ave. to Madras

The Ministry of Peace

The trend of the past four years has been toward the constriction of individual rights. My concern is not that students are losing their rights, but that the Administration is not willing to do anything about it. The Administration has demonstrated a total lack of concern in the opinions and desires of the student body by continuing to ignore their concerns.

Number 27

Volume 104

Monday, June 4, 1984

Chairman: Martin Dickau '85
Editor-in-Chief: Charles P. Brown '84
Managing Editor: Scott I. Chase '84
Business Manager: Paul G. O'Connor '84

News Editors
James E. Shum '83
Thom Y. Huang '84
Ronald W. Nunn '83
Tien L. Pan '84

Opinion Editors
Andrew E. Gorter '87
Gregory D. Threlkeld '87

Features Editors
Diana ben-Aaron '84
Photography Editors
Phil B. Hahn '85
Henry Wu '86

Advertising Manager: Robert A. Bencher '84
Contributing Editors
Burt S. Kattner '84
Charles A. Fortner '84
Debra Bukowski '85
Simon L. Gertler '85
Matthew W. Gnam '85
Gomer V. Walle '85
V. Michael Giuffre '85

Senior Editors
... Keith I. Togoni '84

Production Manager
Amy Soini '84

Institutional Outreach Representative
A. David Boccardi '79

Assistant to the Editor

PRODUCTION STAFF

Associate Editor: Keith I. Togoni '84
Ten Directors: Andrew S. Gertler '87; Bill C. Carder '87; Ron Bloom '88; Carl A. LaCorbe '88; Mary C. Yovine '87; Keithen M. O'Connor '87; Ying Ying, K. Chung '85.

PRODUCTION STAFF FOR THIS ISSUE

Night Editor: Andrew S. Gertler '87;
Bill C. Carder '87; Charles P. Brown '84,
William L. Giuffre '84, Amy S. Gorin '84,
Scott I. Chase '84, Simon L. Gertler '85,
P. Paul Hay '85, Ronald W. Nunn '83.

1984 Copyright

The Tech, Inc.
Massachusetts Institute of Technology
20-2018

The Tech is published Tuesdays and Fridays during the academic year, and weekly during the summer, by The Tech, Inc., an independent student organization. The Tech is run by and for the students of MIT. The Tech is sold on campus and at area stores.

Volume 104, Number 27 Monday, June 4, 1984

The Ministry of Peace

The Administration has demonstrated a total lack of concern in the opinions and desires of the student body by continuing to ignore their concerns.

The Administration has demonstrated a total lack of concern in the opinions and desires of the student body by continuing to ignore their concerns.

The Administration has demonstrated a total lack of concern in the opinions and desires of the student body by continuing to ignore their concerns.

The Administration has demonstrated a total lack of concern in the opinions and desires of the student body by continuing to ignore their concerns.