Chicago, Chicago, it’s your kind of musical

Chicago, Musical Theatre Guild, further performances on September 7, 9, 11, 14, and 15 at 8 pm; free performance for freshmen at 3:30 pm September 9; admission $3 MIT students, $6 others.

An animated matron emerged from the auditorium and exclaimed to her consort, “It’s terrific.” A lucky scoop for this reviewer.

It’s the orchestra that binds a musical together, and the band for Chicago was on top form. While the audience focused on the action, the orchestra provided much of the suspense, and climax, too. While many members of the cast were not MIT-related, the orchestra was made up largely of MIT students (or ex-students) and proved that we have an enormous amount of talent on our doorstep.

Daniell Rosenthal’s direction was magnificent; so tall of the many clever touches would only be to spoil your fun. The way to find out is to go and enjoy this inspired show, probably the best the Musical Theatre Guild has ever done.

We’re in 1920s Chicago and, if you’re a lady inclined to do away with your lover, you can save your neck by hiring $5000 lawyer Billy Flynn; there are plenty of publicly-defended criminals (or innocents) for which the media run the show.

The two most intriguing murderesses to relate, the orchestra was made up largely of MIT students (or ex-students) and proved that we have an enormous amount of talent on our doorstep.

There’s a lot of things that our hamburgers just aren’t good for, we realize that. For instance, we know that our Quarter Pounder® will never break the land speed record at Bonneville. We can assure you that our cheeseburger just won't make comfortable, therapeutic footwear; and we're quite certain that the Big Mac™, if integrated with your component stereo system will not enhance the total sound quality.

So what are we trying to say? That our hamburgers are good for one thing, and that’s you.
