Dan's Office considers action on Senior House
At a meeting Wednesday night, Dan's Office representatives mentioned the possibility of converting Senior House to a graduate residence, students said. "It was not a threat; it was a consequen ce should the house prove irresponsible, and someone rived at the time.

"If any student feels like doing this as a joke or whatever, this office will prosecute," he added.

The Housing Office will assess the damage on a case-by-case basis, the typical estimate, Sherwood emphasized. "It could go up -- they haven't an issue," Margaret Keyser said. "We're very concerned about that attitudes in the house, they would not be intimidated by the behavior of the upperclassmen around them as another option. "I don't think there is
