change Program. The IAP/Wellesley-MIT Exchange Program, according to Mary Z. Enterline, manager of cross-registered, says and relaxation techniques? primarily for hands-on laboratory an introductory guide to the public.

Anyone wishing to serve as a football statistician or Public Ad- dress Announcer at the MIT home football games this season may contract Kim Corso, Sports Information Director, at 253-7966, or at E15-289.

The Project for American Is- raeli Research, a non-profit organisation, is currently recruiting students from Borsos area universities to perform research locally for Israeli businesses, govern- ments, and academic, research and scientific institutions. Research projects will be available in fields, including marketing, fin- ance, law, computers, engineering, design and others.

The project depends on specific requirements of the Israeli sponsor. P.I.A.R.'s objective is to strengthen the relationship of American university students and Israel to contribute in the Israeli economic growth by enable stu- dents to donate their skills as re- searchers. Students may arrange to receive academic credit for projects. Projects may lead to their work experience, or for- mation in Israel. Grad- uate and undergraduates' students can apply. For more in- formation, please contact Emma Morris, Program Manager, Project for Israeli-American Re- search, Inc., 267 Baker Street Office Building, Boston MA 02116, (617) 432-7891.

The University of Southern California has established a Cen- ter for International Journalism offers a unique new graduate program. Send away for applica- tion information to the Center at University of Southern California, Center for International Journalism, Graig Poal Salvadori, 315, Uni- versity Park-SOC 195, Los Ange- les, CA 90007, ATTN: Professor Murray Fromson, Director.

The Cambridge School Volunteers invites you to help us help kids learn. Your time and talents can really make a difference in a child's life. There is a spot for you among our many volunteer possibilities ranging from Basic Skills to Computers to College and Career Awareness. Credits may be available through your school. For more information please call 492-9218 to discover how you can be part of Cam- bridge School Volunteers.

For the 1989-90 year the Professional Studies Program in India is offering graduate students from a wide range of professional fields the chance to do fieldwork or re- search for a year in India.

Applications for the 1986-7 year are now available from In- ternational Education at the Univer- sity of California, Berkeley, which coordinates the program. The Professional Studies Pro- gram places graduate students at universities and research institutions in India, in government work with Indian faculty and professionals in developing projects related to their professional and research interests.

Many previous participants have used their Indian research data in writing their doctoral dis- sertations and are preparing arti- cles for both Indian and Amer- ican professional journals. The 190 volunteers in past years have come from fields as di- verse as agriculture, architecture, business administration, engi- neering, librarianship, public health, social welfare, economics, public policy and urban plan- ning, as well as the traditional professions of law, medicine and education.

The Program provides one month of language training and orientation seminars on Indian civilization and the problems of development and social change. Also included are round-trip air- fare from the east or west coast, medical care, a living allowance, and research-related travel ex- penses.

January 6, 1986 is the applica- tion deadline. To apply or to ob- tain further information, write to L. Ellen Soderbom, Program Co- ordinator, International Educa- tion, University of California, 538 Channing Way, Berkeley, CA 94720 or (call (415) 642- 1356.

The Program is offering skill-training for programs utiliz- ing the backgrounds of college graduates with mathematics and science minors. Peace Corp vol- unteers will be considered for their service they receive a generous living allowance, paid travel, training and health care. A payment of a maximum of $175 per month is paid to each volunteer. For infor- mation on Peace Corps service, call 223-6066 or 3566, or write to University Peace Corps Program, Com- pany of Southern California, Center for International Journalism, Graig Poal Salvadori, 315, Uni- versity Park-SOC 195, Los Ange- les, CA 90007, ATTN: Professor Murray Fromson, Director.

The U.S. Peace Corps has established this Center for International Journalism offers a unique new graduate program. Send away for applica- tion information to the Center at University of Southern California, Center for International Journalism, Graig Poal Salvadori, 315, Uni- versity Park-SOC 195, Los Ange- les, CA 90007, ATTN: Professor Murray Fromson, Director.

The Cambridge School Volunteers invites you to help us help kids learn. Your time and talents can really make a difference in a child's life. There is a spot for you among our many volunteer possibilities ranging from Basic Skills to Computers to College and Career Awareness. Credits may be available through your school. For more information please call 492-9218 to discover how you can be part of Cambridge School Volunteers.

For the 1989-90 year the Professional Studies Program in India is offering graduate students from a wide range of professional fields the chance to do fieldwork or research for a year in India.

Applications for the 1986-7 year are now available from International Education at the University of California, Berkeley, which coordinates the program. The Professional Studies Program places graduate students at universities and research institutions in India, in government work with Indian faculty and professionals in developing projects related to their professional and research interests.

Many previous participants have used their Indian research data in writing their doctoral dis- sertations and are preparing arti- cles for both Indian and Amer- ican professional journals. The 190 volunteers in past years have come from fields as di- verse as agriculture, architecture, business administration, engi- neering, librarianship, public health, social welfare, economics, public policy and urban plan- ning, as well as the traditional professions of law, medicine and education.

The Program provides one month of language training and orientation seminars on Indian civilization and the problems of development and social change. Also included are round-trip air- fare from the east or west coast, medical care, a living allowance, and research-related travel ex-

non-