Announcement of pilot scholarship incentive

The text announcing the Pilot Outside Scholarship Incentive Program, which was distributed to eligible students this summer, follows:

The Student Financial Aid Office, in conjunction with the Faculty Committee on Undergraduate Admissions and Financial Aid (CUFA), has decided to test a plan which provides incentive for upperclassmen who apply for and receive scholarships from sources outside the Institute. On a trial basis, therefore, when we receive notice of a new outside scholarship awarded to an upperclass student, the amount of that award (or a combination of such awards) up to $1000 will be used to reduce the National Direct Student Loan (NDSL) in the awardee's standard package of aid, rather than reducing MIT Grant.

This trial exception to a long-standing MIT policy will apply only to scholarships awarded for standing MIT policy will apply to eligible students this summer.

E-Systems continues the tradition of the world's great problem solvers.

Steinmetz was one of the few geniuses concerned with the practical aspects of electrical engineering. His pragmatic analytical approach led to the development of efficient electrical power grids as we know them today. Scientists and engineers at E-Systems are carrying on in his tradition. Through the combination of sophisticated analytical and simulation techniques, they are evolving optimal system solutions to some of the world's toughest problems in electronics.

E-Systems is recognized as one of the world's leading problem-solving companies in the design and production of communications, data, antenna, intelligence and reconnaissance systems that are often the first-of-a-kind in the world.

JEWISH INTRODUCTIONS

We introduce you with:

We feature a broad range of fine Jewish girls and boys who want to meet and socialize with students from all over the Boston area schools.

You and your potential friend will each receive a confidential letter, so that you can arrange to meet each other at your mutual convenience. Whenever possible, appointments will occur more than one matching. All introductions will be made with your consent.

Interviews will be conducted at your campus beginning in October and at regular intervals throughout the academic year. Matches will be made whenever appropriate. Offices are located in the Physical Science Library and at Bedford Springs.

Call 266-4842 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. for interview appointments and information.
