Class of 1989

President

Joseph Woo and Simoi Tsigounis
President
Class of 1989

As Effective Councilors, the student council will be able to effectively carry out the responsibilities of our office. Our diverse backgrounds in our living groups, majors, and interests will enable us to incorporate a broad range of ideas when organizing social activities. As juniors, our experiences have taught us how to operate in an民主 environment. Our unique positions allow us to plan large-scale activities such as a class picnic and a semi-formal.

Robert David Duis

My experience as Social Chair of the Freshman Class this past year has been an immensely positive one. I organized and carried out the Ice Cream Orgy, the Sophomore/Senior Ice Cream Social, as well as sales and delivery of ice cream. In the future, I hope to organize a Yearly Sophomore/Senior Ice Cream Social, as well as sales and delivery of ice cream. In the future, I hope to organize a Yearly Sophomore/Senior Ice Cream Social, as well as sales and delivery of ice cream.

Robert David Duis

My experience as Secretary of the Freshman Class this past year has been an immensely positive one. I organized and carried out the design, reproduction, purchasing, sales, and delivery of over 900 Christmas Cards. With the success of this project, our class became the first Freshman Class in MIT history to post a profit in its first semester. I also worked with the Sophomore Class President, recruiting help for the Freshman/Sophomore for Carnation Grants, as well as sales and delivery of Carnation Grants.

Robert David Duis

All of these experiences have taught me to do my best to work for the Class of 1989. For the Sophomore year, I plan to organize a Pizza Social, sell more Carnation Grants, design and produce the best Class Shirt and Class Ring ever, and do my best to entice all of my officers, the incoming Freshman Class officers, and my classmates. But before I can begin, I need your vote. If you elect me, I pledge to do all this and more.

Vote for me. I can't wait to go to work for you.

Vice President

Charles E. Sakamaki

As Freshman Council Vice President this past year, I worked under the President and learned the intricacies of the student government at MIT. Our Freshman Council undertook such activities as the Ice Cream Orgy, the Christmas Card-giving, and added the Sophomore Class in the sales and distribution of Valentine Carnation Grants. My other experiences of leadership include serving as the Secretary for one term and President for three terms of our Junior Achievement Company. There I learned about financial management, organization, and discipline. I was also a finalist for Officer of the Year three times, was the top high school student in America, and was an officer of the National Honor Society. I will help to make activities go.

Daniel Cronin

As a candidate for Treasurer, I don't want to make a lot of ridiculous promises that no one could ever keep. Instead, I want to explain why I want to do this job. I have had a lot of leadership experience, both in high school and here at MIT. I have participated in many activities, and I would very much like to put what I've learned to use for our class. I want to make this next year both yours and mine, the most memorable of our stay at MIT. If I'm elected, I'll work hard and long to make 1986 an exciting and interesting year. In short, I won't stop until I've done the best I can. Thank you.

Secretary

Haward Jay Eisen

Student Council can be a powerful tool for students. It allows us to express our views (both as a group and individualistically), protect and exercise our rights, as well as to conduct activities which benefit the entire class. I have lived in Student Government for many years, acting as Vice-President of the Freshman Class the past two years. As chairman of many committees, I have organized and managed our social calendar, and have been the liaison between the council and the university. As well, I have assisted the council in planning events such as the Ice-Cream Orgy, the Sophomore/Senior Ice Cream Social, and the class barbecue at the pits by Dupont once in the early fall and once in the late spring.

Treasurer

Vital Varawat

I feel that the most important part of student government is that everyone should be involved in it. Being treasurer would mean that I would be in charge of the finances and making sure that the books are in order. But most of all, I feel that my job would also be making sure that people's ideas get a voice in government. Sure, being at MIT means you're going to study hard, but if a person does not do anything else but study they are missing all of what college is about. What I want to do is give people a chance to get involved and gain more than four straight years of tooting our own horn.

Publicity/Newsletter Coordinator

Irene Skrakos

I intend to produce a good student oriented newsletter that will keep the class of '89 informed about our class activities. The newsletter should solicit positive and negative responses from the class of '89 and will aim to inform the class of any news or information. As a sophomore, I have been a part of the student council and have had the opportunity to work with the council on various projects. I will try to stay up to date on all news and events and will be able to provide a good perspective on what is happening on campus.

Social Chairman

Maya Bose and Vivian Liu

To some, the class of '89 may be just another freshman class at MIT. But we will and will make an impact on MIT with you help and support. As of yet, there has been no major social function held by the freshman class. It's a semi-formal or a big, but we will change that. We will do it and we will do it big! And like a scout, "I'll do my best." I hope on March 12 I shall be The head of our class treasury. Dear Class of '89, take note. And when it's over, don't forget to call either one of us at 536-3931.
