Chomsky, Wald speak at rally

(Continued from page 1) protecting people-protecting context, he said.

Superior alternatives for national security policy are dis- numbered either because they do not maintain an intimidating posture or because they do not subsidize industry with expensive research projects, Chomsky continued. He gave a number of examples, in- cluding joining the Soviets in a comprehensive test ban and re- ducing contact in high friction areas like the Mediterranean Sea — where nuclear war is more likely to break out. "Security is not even a concern of the pre- sent administration's national security policy, he asserted.

Wald presents plan for nuclear security

Wald, speaking following Chomsky, cited a four- cornered prescription for security. It included:

I) A pledge of no first-use of nuclear weapons

II) The immediate cessation of all nuclear testing

III) The production of stocks of chemical weapons, a moratorium on The House of Representatives has recently passed a number of arms control measures, he pointed out, including: a funding cutoff for nuclear weapons testing, a moratorium on The House of Representatives has recently passed a number of arms control measures, he pointed out, including: a funding cutoff for nuclear weapons testing, a moratorium on anti-satellite weapons testing in space, a funding cutoff for all production of chemical weapons, and an SDI budget freeze at last year's level of $1.1 billion.

Wald, speaking following Chomsky, cited a four- cornered prescription for security. It included:

I) A pledge of no first-use of nuclear weapons

II) The immediate cessation of all nuclear testing

III) The production of stocks of chemical weapons, a moratorium on anti-satellite weapons testing in space, a funding cutoff for all production of chemical weapons, and an SDI budget freeze at last year's level of $1.1 billion. Chomsky underscored the importance of local political ac- tion in these recent legislative events and urged the crowd to be- come involved.

"The rally was organized by the UCAM groups of several area colleges, with assistance from the MIT Science Action Coordinat- ing Committee and the MIT Dis- armament Study Group.

Senior House freshmen say rush is misleading

(Continued from page 1)

"The people who gave that line are mostly a minority," he said. "Such people hang around in the courtyard and are therefore more visible, he explained.

McNulty moved to Random Hall last week, however, since there was no competition for the space that had opened up there. Jay Damask '90 did not visit Senior House during rush. He said that he did not receive much infor- mation from other freshmen. "Very few people showed up in Senior House rush activities," Damask said.

HOW TO CREATE A COUNTRY WITHOUT A KING

THE BIGGEST POLITICAL STORY OF THE LAST 200 YEARS

Nations have different strengths. Military or indus- trial might. Mineral wealth. Population for some, sheer size for others. History teaches us, however, that character survives, princi- ples last. The government of the United States of America is now one of the oldest on Earth and, by any measure, surely one of the best. The U.S. Constitution set forth the principles which embody the charac- ter of this nation. And as we near the bicentennial of this great document, it is clear: The more we under- stand the principles of freedom it set forth, the more sure those principles will endure.

In this spirit, General Motors is proud to present, on the CBS Network, Part II of the life of George Washington: The Forging of a Nation.

Based on James Thomas Flexner's Pulitzer Prize biography, it shows how Washington proved that a country could