Superpower summit this weekend

The Soviet Union has accepted Iceland's choice for next weekend's Reagan-Gorbachev meeting. The Soviet accept- ance of the site on Reykjavik makes a closer hurdle in the preparations for the talks. President Reagan said he intends to bring up Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan and human rights violations in the Soviet Union when he meets with Mikhail Gorbachev this weekend. But he told a business group meeting at the White House yesterday not to expect the conference to produce new superpower agreements. (AP)

Supreme Court to hear free-speech cases

The Supreme Court struck down a ban on teachers' dis- cussing union business during school hours, as William Rehnquist made his debut as chief justice yesterday. By a 6-3 vote, the justices upheld the decision of the 9th US Circuit Court of Appeals that the ban unconstitutionally interfered with freedom of speech and freedom of associa- tion.

The justices will also rule on a Houston ordinance under which a man was arrested for heckling police officers. Circuit Court of Appeals that the ban unconstitutionally violated First Amendment rights. The justices upheld the decision of the 5th US Circuit Court yesterday, one day after state and federal agents searched LaRouche's headquarters in Leesburg, Virginia. (AP)

LaRouche workers are indicted for fraud, claim violations

Two corporations, three campaign committees, and ten individuals associated with political innovator Lyndon B. Johnson and members of the LaRouche group have been indicted in an alleged nationwide credit and fraud operation. For several years in Boston, judges issued the indictment yesterday, but after hours state and federal agents searched LaRouche's headquarters in Leesburg, Virginia. LaRouche and his organizations have repeatedly said that the government investigation was an attempt to cripple them and deprive LaRouche supporters of their Con- stitutional rights. LaRouche has announced that he is running in 1988 for the Democratic Presidential nomination. (AP)

Economic activity increases

Production should be healthy in the months ahead, ac- cording to figures from the National Association of Pur- chasing Managers. The economy grew slightly last month, with production rising from an already high level in August. The prediction was based on data compiled from purchasing managers of 250 industrial companies. (AP)

Warmer weather welcome

After a brief encounter with summer last week, we now have a taste of what lies ahead of us in the not-so-distant future. Although the worst will be over by the time this is published, we can expect cooler weather to continue through today and into tonight. By tomorrow we will begin to see a warming trend in our weather, however, and with a high pressure system builds to our east.

Tuesday night: Clear and cool with low temperatures around 45°F (7°C) in the city and near 40°F (4°C) in the suburbs. Winds will be light and continue to be cool. High temperatures will be in the mid-50s (14-15°C) in the city and near 50°F (10°C) in the suburbs. Winds will be light and continue to be cool. High temperatures will be in the mid-50s (14-15°C) in the city and near 50°F (10°C) in the suburbs.

Wednesday night: Mostly sunny with warmer with high temperatures 60-65°F (16-19°C). Thursday: Partly cloudy with high temperatures again in the 60s (16-20°C).

Forecast by Robert X. Black

US holds firm on SDI

US Secretary of State George F. Schultz PhD '49 said this weekend that the United States will not make any deal with the Soviet Union that would assure the develop- ment of a space-based defense. It is inconceivable that Reagan would do anything at the talks in Iceland that would block the so-called "Star Wars" program, Schultz told ABC. (AP)

Soviets release Orlov

Soviet dissident Yuri Orlov, who spent nearly a decade in prison for exposing government activities, arrived in New York on Sunday. Speaking through an in- terpreter, he told reporters, "I am very glad to have been a free man ... I can say whatever I want freely. Now, I can speak freely about how the Soviet Union should develop." Orlow vowed "not only to engage in scientific research but go on defending the rights of the Soviet people." (AP)

Violence subsides in South Africa

The South African government said arson is continu- ing, but the targets of protests have changed. Official fig- ures show a decline in anti-government demonstrations. The number of non-violent demonstrations, such as rent boycotts, has increased. The death toll from violence has dropped from 123 deaths in August to 16 in September and the first part of October. (AP)

OPEC begins conference

A new round of Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries talks has started in Geneva, Switzerland. Iran's oil minister predicted OPEC will soon renew its tempo- ry accord on production controls in an effort to raise world prices. Iran was the surprise architect of the Aug. 5 accord to limit production to 16.5 million barrels a day for the months of September and October. OPEC's pro- visions ceiling was more than 30 million barrels a day.

Boston teachers' union calls for ban on weapons

The Boston teachers' union has called for a tough new policy against student weapons. Boston schools also sent tighter security in school buildings, said Richard Stutman, the union's chief negotiator. The teachers want regulation for a year for any student who brings a weapon to school. Stutman's comments come two days after a Brighton High School senior was stabbed three times in a dispute with another student. The student is reported in good condi- tion at St. Elizabeth's Hospital. His assistant died after the attack. (AP)

Boston Red Sox pitcher Roger Clemens has been named the 12th winner of the Cy Young Award for distin- guished achievement, American League President Bobby Brown announced. Clemens led the American League with a 2.48 earned-run average. He allowed only 179 hits in 234 innings and was beamed for the second lead in the final week by Seattle's Mark Langston, 243-243. (AP)

Largest captures record

Seattle Seahawks wide receiver Steve Largent set a new NFL record of 128 consecutive games in which he caught at least one pass. (AP)

Patriots dump Dolphins, 34-7

The New England Patriots started out this week with a victory in the first half of their game against the Miami Dolphins. The Patriots achieved a 27-0 score in the first half, and ended the game with a decisive 34-7 win. (AP)

Kasparov close to victory

The World Chess Championship is racing to a conclu- sion with champion Gary Kasparov in control. Kasparov had the lead at the match last week, and is now leading by a score of 11½-10½. The match continues this week with Kasparov commanding the white pieces. Kas- parov is widely predicted to win the match, and many chess enthusiasts are excited about the possibility of Kasparov winning. (AP)

Dukakis addresses housing problems

Governor Michael Dukakis, entering the last month of his re-election campaign, is expected to address the state's housing problems this week. He is due to announce a series of programs intended to ease the problem. He will probably ask the legislature again to work on his $100 million housing package, which has thus far been viewed coldly by the lawmakers. (AP)

Roger Clemens wins Joe Cronin award

Boston Red Sox pitcher Roger Clemens has been named the 12th winner of the Cy Young Award for distin- guished achievement, American League President Bobby Brown announced. Clemens led the American League with a 2.48 earned-run average. He allowed only 179 hits in 234 innings and was beamed for the second lead in the final week by Seattle's Mark Langston, 243-243. (AP)

Largest captures record

Seattle Seahawks wide receiver Steve Largent set a new NFL record of 128 consecutive games in which he caught at least one pass. (AP)

Patriots dump Dolphins, 34-7

The New England Patriots started out this week with a victory in the first half of their game against the Miami Dolphins. The Patriots achieved a 27-0 score in the first half, and ended the game with a decisive 34-7 win. (AP)

Kasparov close to victory

The World Chess Championship is racing to a conclu- sion with champion Gary Kasparov in control. Kasparov had the lead at the match last week, and is now leading by a score of 11½-10½. The match continues this week with Kasparov commanding the white pieces. Kas- parov is widely predicted to win the match, and many chess enthusiasts are excited about the possibility of Kasparov winning. (AP)

Dukakis addresses housing problems

Governor Michael Dukakis, entering the last month of his re-election campaign, is expected to address the state's housing problems this week. He is due to announce a series of programs intended to ease the problem. He will probably ask the legislature again to work on his $100 million housing package, which has thus far been viewed coldly by the lawmakers. (AP)