US officially breaks SALT

The addition of a modified B-12 bomber to the US nuclear arsenal last Friday put the United States over the limit of the SALT II arms treaty. Some European allies expressed concern over the failure to comply with the treaty.
The treaty was never ratified by the US Congress. (AP)

Supreme Court to decide extent of federal coercion

The Supreme Court has denied a new lottery in which the state-run news agency. There were nine such flights plane intruded into its airspace twice yesterday, according to the same news agency. There were nine such flights in November, the agency claimed. Such actions present a "provocation," the news agency asserted. (AP)

Layton convicted of conspiracy to murder

Larry Layton, a former member of the People's Temple Cult, was convicted yesterday of conspiring to murder Congressmen Leo Ryan (D-CA). Ryan was killed in Jon-neson, Guyana eight years ago, on a Guyana aircraft.
Layton faces a maximum of life sentence, in prison. Hours after Ryan and four others were shot to death, more than 900 cult members died in a mass suicide. (AP)

North Korea accuses United States of spying

North Korea accused the United States yesterday of entrusting to high-altitude spying. An SR-71 reconnaissance plane intruded into its airspace twice yesterday, according to the same news agency. There were nine such flights
in November, the agency claimed. Such actions present
"a provocation," the news agency asserted. (AP)

Congressional leaders seek truth in arms profit manipulation

Lt. Col. Oliver North "did not act alone" in transfering Iranian funds to the Nicaraguan contras, according to Senate Intelligence Committee Vice Chairman Patrick J.
Ldesk (D-VA). North received his orders from a higher authority, Leahy accused on Saturday. Some administration officials would like to see North become the scapegoat for the whole Iran affair, Leahy asserted.

Some officials believe that former National Security Advisor Adm. John Poindexter may have destroyed sensitive authority, Leahy accused on Saturday. Some administrators and a member of the state police bomb squad rushed to the scene in front of Town Hall. The box was carefully opened, and authorities discovered a beeping portable gaming device. (AP)

Israel offers cooperation in arms investigation

Israel's Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir promised cooperation yesterday in US probes of the Iranian weapons deal, Israel admittance shipping arms to Iraq to help free American hostages in Lebanon. But Israeli officials said they did not suspect the profits from the sales were being directed to Nicaraguan rebels. (AP)

Weather

Stormy again

The large area of high pressure that has brought us fair but cold weather over the past couple of days will move into the maritime provinces tonight. This will allow a spreading area of low pressure in the Ohio Valley to move up the Appalachian ridge and approach our coast tomorrow. Plenty of mild air will be drawn in here on southerly winds and we can expect mostly rain. There will be quite a bit of icing in central New England tomorrow night with snowfall confined to the northern mountainous areas.

Today: Partly sunny, clouds increasing in the west.
Nights near 40 °F (4 °C). Light northerly winds early, becoming southeastely by late afternoon.
Tonight: Snow and sleet developing before morning, changing to rain with little or no accumulation.
Temperatures rising into the low 40s (4 °C) by morning. Winds from the southeast at 15-25 mph (25-40 km/h).
Wednesday: Rain, heavy at times, winds with some coastal fog. Winds in the upper 40s (7 °C). Winds southeasterly 20-30 mph (30-40 km/h).
Thursday: Rain, showers, winds in the mid 30s (0-3 °C).
Friday: More sleet, winds, highs in the low 40s, but cooling off the the 30s in the afternoon.
