ELDEC offers you what the big electronics companies can't. Size.

Sometimes it seems like a young engineer with 'big ideas' has only one choice: go with one of the industry giants and get ready to wait years for your contribution to be noticed.
ELDEC offers you another choice. With $160 million in annual sales, we're big enough to support complex, challenging work, yet small enough for your contribution to stand out.
As specialists in the custom design and manufacture of electronic products for aerospace and defense, we're looking for engineers who thrive on technical challenges. We've organized into 'companies within the Company' with each 'company' challenging the others, yet contributing to ELDEC as a whole.

It means the individual can have a direct and important impact.
And it means that impact gets noticed. We think that makes us just the right size for your big ideas.

FORUM ON THE FUTURE OF THE CREATIVE ARTS AT M.I.T.
Thursday, February 26, 4 to 6 pm, 34-101

As you may know, MIT is currently undertaking a major reappraisal of its undergraduate program, with the aim of improving the balance and integration of science, technology, the humanities, and the arts. In the context of this reappraisal, Provost John Deutch has convened a committee to evaluate what opportunities we are providing - and what opportunities we could be providing - in the balance and integration of science, technology, the humanities, and the arts.

In the context of this reappraisal, Provost John Deutch has convened a committee to evaluate what opportunities we are providing - and what opportunities we could be providing - in the balance and integration of science, technology, the humanities, and the arts.

The forum on Thursday, which is being sponsored by the UA and the GSC, will give you a means to voice your opinions directly to members of the committee.
