Listen to the new albums from Lone Justice and XTC

SHELTER
Lone Justice
On Coffee Records.

By JULIAN WEST

The first I heard of the new LP by Lone Justice was the title track, "Shelter." I liked it immediately. It was catchy and seemed to have something to say. It also sounded a little different from the general run of Top 40 hits, for reasons mostly - but not quite entirely - to do with Maria McKee's voice. She has a distinctive deepish voice with a trace of an accent, and sounds agreeably like a lower-voiced version of Stevie Nicks.

The flipside of the "Maxisingle" (three songs instead of two) is disappointing by comparison. The one other selection from the album, "Bellevy," starts off promisingly enough but soon hogs down, becoming repetitive and too-familiar sounding. Perhaps I would like it more if McKee's vocals were audible. They are much less so on "Shelter." I liked it immediately. It was catchy and seemed to have something to say. It also sounded a little different from the general run of Top 40 hits, for reasons mostly - but not quite entirely - to do with Maria McKee's voice. She has a distinctive deepish voice with a trace of an accent, and sounds agreeably like a lower-voiced version of Stevie Nicks.

If the full LP contains a few more hits like "Shelter" then it is not a bad buy. One suspects, however, that the mid-angle contains the best the album has to offer.

SKYLARKING
XTC
On Geffen Records.

By JULIAN WEST

WINDSOR, ENGLAND is an odd place for a pop band to come from, and a stranger place still to wish to stay. Take my word for it. Perhaps it is because XTC chose not to abandon their home base that they never quite hit the top of the charts, especially in North America.

Their new album, "Skylarking," could well explode this theory. It rises to the level of their earlier material, which has earned them critical acclaim and a deserved following, and ought to earn them a measure of popular success as well.

Fans of the splendid two-LP set, "English Roundabout," will not be disappointed by what they hear here. Some of the tracks, such as "Dear God" and "Encore," sound as though they could have come straight from the earlier album. Listening to them, it is impossible to tell that several fairly troubled years lie between the "Roundabout" and "Skylarking," and that the latter represents something of a comeback for XTC.

Those unfamiliar with XTC can expect to hear unadulterated, upbeat rock. Lyrics are usually direct enough that one can take them in while dancing, but not without being sung by Andy Partridge. Songs by Colin Moulding do not hold up to Partridge's best, but on the whole the album is catchy, pure and well worth a listen.

The Tech proudly presents...

The Tech Performing Arts Series

A service for the entire MIT community from The Tech, in conjunction with the MIT Technology Community Association.

Special reduced-price tickets now available for the following events:

Guarneri String Quartet
Continuing to blend the talents of its four founding members - Arnold Steinhardt, violin; John Dalley, viola; Michael Tree, viola; and David Soyer, cello - the critically acclaimed Guarneri String Quartet will be in concert on Friday, April 24 at 8 pm in Jordan Hall of the New England Conservatory. The program will include works by Mozart, Janacek, and Debussy. MIT price: $3.50

Steve Reich and Musicians
Recognized internationally as one of the world's foremost living contemporary composers, innovative performer Steve Reich and his ensemble of musicians will offer a program of works by Mr. Reich including the Boston premieres of "Six Marimbas," "New York Counterpoint," and "Setext" on Friday, April 24 at 8 pm in the Berklee Performance Center. MIT price: $5.00

Tickets will be sold by the Technology Community Association, W20-450 in the Student Center. If nobody is in, please leave your order and your phone number on the TCA answering machine at x3-4885. You will be called back as soon as possible.

Have a meaningful relationship this summer.

NORTHEASTERN UNIVERSITY SUMMER SESSION '87

2005 Massachusetts Avenue
Boston, MA 02115

Need more fun? Try our Free off-campus housing services too!

Quick, What do George Deanshine and Margaret Demarit have in common?"Good question. They both attend Northeastern University (and you know what that means)."

KYLE JOHN
1034 Altoc Drive
LOS ANGELES, CA 90024

(617) 495-4321

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT

5900 South Sheridan Road
Evanston, IL 60201

Please send me free copy of the Summer Session '87 catalog and Financial aid and registration information. (Available self-mail)

Name
School Address
City
State
Zip

Please send me free copy of the Summer Session '87 catalog and Financial aid and registration information. (Available self-mail)

Name
School Address
City
State
Zip

Walk just one block from the 63 Brown Line or 2005 Sheridan Road.

(312) 503-0542

For information on our programs, please contact the Office of Admissions.