nine, beating Bowdoin College for the first time in the team's history. It was a closely fought battle that remained tied for the majority of the game, and it looked like Bowdoin might pull off a tie in the final minutes of play.

Kate Hope scored MIT's first goal on a fluke shot from behind the bow's net, with less than two minutes left in the second period of a 2-2 deadlock. Bowdoin pulled its goalie to try for the tying goal with the 5-on-4 advantage. Then, with 20 seconds left, Rafael Berman '88 would drop a shot from the point directly into Gasparini's pads. With the score at 6-2, it looked unlikely that the Engineers would make it to the championship game.

The ghost goal shattered the dreams of the Engineers, who were still willing to try to pull themselves out of it. With these two quick goals, the score at 6-2, it looked unlikely that the Engineers would make it to the championship game.
