Anderson tape released
President Reagan is denying that his administration has impeded the release of hostage Terry Anderson. The American journalist, who has been held in Lebanon for more than three years, made the charge in a videotaped statement released by his captors. It is not known whether Anderson scripted his two-and-a-half minute message or if he was reading what his kidnappers wrote. The President said he is "deeply disturbed" by the charge.

Israeli elections today
Israel has deployed 14,000 security personnel to guard against violence during national elections today. Analysts said Sunday's deadly freemach attack that killed four Israeli may help Likud Party candidates - with their tougher approach toward the Palestinian uprising in the occupied territories.

Soviet jets hit Afghan rebels
The State Department said yesterday that the Soviets are flying high-performance MiG jets in bombing raids against Afghan resistance fighters. Speaker Charles Holman said the bombing began over the past weekend, and that the United States views it with grave concern. However, he said the United States sees no reason why the Soviets will not meet their agreement to withdraw from Afghanistan by Feb. 15.

Mandela release called possible
Newspapers in South Africa are saying the results of that country's elections may increase the prospects of freedom for jailed anti-apartheid leader Nelson Mandela. Political correspondents say President F. W. Botha is satisfied that his party withstood a challenge from the far left in last week's elections. They say he is likely to press for a censure traditional arms.

Redman said the bombing began over the past weekend, and that the United States views it with grave concern. They say he is likely to press for a censure.

Dukakis: I am a liberal
Michael Dukakis is continuing to push his populist theme - while George Bush ridicules Dukakis' claim to the liberal tradition of Franklin Roosevelt, Harry Truman, and John Kennedy. Campaigning in California, Dukakis said Bush does not understand the liberal "traditions of being on the side of working families." Campaigning in Kentucky and Missouri, Bush called Dukakis' sudden embracement of the liberal label a "miracle of miracles."

The latest polls put the Massachusetts presidential ticket in the lead by a relatively comfortable margin. A Times-Mirror-Gallup survey indicates Bush ahead by eleven points. A Harris poll gives Bush a seven-point lead.

Quayle: Duke's no JFK either
If imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, then Lloyd Bentsen can take a box. Bentsen's role as law professor Charles Kingsfield in "Inherit the Wind" was originally played by Terry Anderson scripted his two-and-a-half minute message or if he was reading what his kidnappers wrote. The President said he is "deeply disturbed" by the charge.

John Houseman, who went from producer to actor late in 1986, was also the producer of "The War of the Worlds" radio program that caused panic 50 years ago Sunday. A co-worker said Houseman died yesterday after a long fight with cancer of the spine.

Bentsen said that he has enjoyed the support of working men and women and described Kennedy as a tax-and-spend liberal. The senior senator from Massachusetts responded by saying that he has enjoyed the support of working men and women in the past.

Two firms dominate bond work
Sunday's Globe reported that two city law firms have received nearly 125 percent of all bond counsel work from state and local officials throughout Massachusetts for the past five years. The Globe said the firms of Palmer and Dodge and Jones, with 49 percent of their business being in municipal bonds, is the only shared joint appearance by the two major-party candidates in the 1988 Senate campaign.

Dukakis can take a bow. Rival vice-presidential candidate Lloyd Bentsen has ordered the former first lady of the Philippines to Washington, D.C., to be officially detached from the United States' treasury.

AIDS billing
Gay activists in California are seeking to counter Gov. George Deukmejan's endorsement of a controversial AIDS proposal. The Republican governor said he will vote for the measure that would require doctors and hospitals to bill AIDS patients with alcohol. Health officials oppose the initiative, fearing it would discourage people from getting tests for AIDS and volunteering as research subjects.
