Suspect arrested on Harvard Bridge after campus thefts

non described in Burton," Glavin said, and the officer stopped the individual and "told him that he matched the description of someone who had committed a crime in the area."

At that point, two other officers arrived at the scene with Zeuhlke, and she identified the suspect as the person who had stolen her wallet. The Campus Police arrested him and took him to the Cambridge Police Station.

Robber walked into occupied dorm room

Zeuhlke said she was awakened by noises in the hallway outside her fourth floor room. She "heard a door open, but never heard it close," she said, and realized then that someone had entered her room.

He said, "all I want is your wallet" several times. He then took Zeuhlke's wallet, which was on the desk, she said.

"There was a very strong smell to him," Zeuhlke said. He was also "blending perfectly," Zeuhlke said, probably from kicking the door in to Random Hall. "There was blood all over the ceiling, and all over my door," she said.

Zeuhlke called the Campus Police immediately after the intruder left the room. She gave them a description of a black man wearing a long green jacket over jeans and a grey sweatshirt. While she was talking to the Campus Police, she looked out her window and saw the robber leaving the dormitory and heading toward Memorial Drive.

"I don't know how he got into the dormitory," Zeuhlke said. She speculated that "someone who was probably leaving" the dormitory let him in.

The Burton House night watchman later found Zeuhlke's wallet on a back stairway in the dormitory. Everything was in place except for $25 in cash. The Campus Police also found the stolen Random Hall wallet while at Burton House.

Zeuhlke said that the suspect had reportedly "hit four Boston University dorms" before breaking into Random Hall and then Burton House. She also said that he was supposed to "a career criminal, and that he's only been college dorms."

Zeuhlke received a telephone call from the Cambridge District Attorney's office yesterday, and the victim-witness advocate informed her that the suspect had not met bail. A court date will be scheduled soon, Zeuhlke said.

Summer 1990 Student Research Opportunities at the MIT Haystack Observatory, Westford, MA

Undergraduate science and engineering students are invited to apply for summer research positions. These are nominally three months in duration (June, July, August) and carry a stipend depending on academic level and experience. Six positions have been funded for 1990 under the National Science Foundation's "Research Experiences for Undergraduates Program." Women, minorities, and handicapped students are encouraged to apply.

Examples of projects in astronomy, atmospheric sciences and engineering/software are: High-resolution radio studies of stellar systems; ultra compact hotspots in extragalactic radio sources; auroral winds in the earth's upper atmosphere during geomagnetic storms; development of radar data acquisition systems; implementation of antenna feed and servo control systems; calibration and testing of recorders used in interferometry.

For further information and application form please write to: Director, Haystack Observatory, Off Route 40, Westford, MA 01886, or call (508) 692-4764. Application Deadline is 15 March 1990.
