Graduate student telethon begins

The MIT Alumni Fund board has launched a special program called Project 2000 to collect funds to renovate and modernize every classroom at MIT. Under this scheme, any person making a gift of $500 or more will be given a piece of the original steps leading up to 77 Massachusetts Avenue.

The steps were removed in 1973, and are currently in storage, said Collins. "Project 2000 has so far been received very well by our alumni," said Collins. "We have sent about 6000 letters and have already received a number of phone calls promising their pledges for the project," he added.

"The key to successful fund-raising is to involve the alumni in the whole process," said Collins. "Currently we have about 3000 alumni volunteers who help us raise funds each year. There are also 44 alumni clubs around the country and 25 abroad which organize events throughout the year and help the Institute in other ways," he added.

DIVERSITY, VARIETY, CHALLENGE

"An unchallenging 8-to-5 job? I couldn't do that"
I came to Woodward-Clyde to work on a diversity of water resource projects - water quality, hydrology, fisheries - I haven't been disappointed yet. Diversity in a career, at least to me, is crucial.

At Woodward-Clyde you can find variety, diversity, challenge. More importantly, they encourage it: they make it worth it. I can't imagine working any other way.
