Prince Recuperating from Head Injury

By Reuven M. Lerner         0

Christopher H. Prince '92, who was involved in a MITTA accident earlier this month, was released from the hospital in Nashua, N.H., yesterday. Prince was thrown eight feet when the bus, carrying several others, hit his bicycle from behind, and was in the surgical intensive care unit of Beth Israel Hospital for several days following the Feb. 5 accident. A member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, where Prince is the president, said he partially dislodged one of the vertebrae just underneath Prince's skull. Prince was not wearing a helmet at the time of the accident.

Speaking from his home, Prince stated that his own memory of the accident is "pretty fuzzy," and that his head and memory had been hurt. Prince said he has to report back to the surgeon at the hospital soon, but that he is taking medicines in the meantime. "I've been pretty much staying on the couch and resting," he said. He hopes to return to MIT soon, but is not sure just when that will happen, he added.

Debate Shows Minor Dissent Among Dems

...then eventually offered a non-specific program of economic conversion to build ships, bridges, and high-speed rail along the Eastern corridor. Harris later suggested the U.S. should save several billion dollars by replacing all the light bulbs in the country with energy efficient ones, and said he would "concentrate on a program of developing solar hydrogen ... 25 years down the pipe."

Former California Governor Edmund (Jerry) Brown said he would eliminate all current motor taxes, including social security, and replace them with a 13 percent income tax. He said this would save the jobs of those workers who have lost local government jobs because of the economic problems in the area. He added that the "cutting of the tax code is a good source of revenue which would not result in a major tax on the economy."

Positions such as these make Brown a distinctive candidate but keep him out of the mainstream.

After the debate, Tsongas was asked what set him apart from the other candidates. "The differences between me and the other Democrats is that I don't claim to be Santa Claus," he said. "The middle class tax cut is the easiest thing in the world to support. It has obvious appeal, but it does not create jobs." Other candidates were not available to comment on his uniqueness.

...Rather than clarifying the choice between the candidates, the debate left the impression that it will have almost no impact on the primary, and that it served only to confirm the Democratic handwriting of opposition to Bush.

Grad Students: Be a Coop Director

The Board of Directors of the Harvard Cooperative Society will soon be selecting new members, and positions for MIT graduate students are available! Applications are due immediately — nominations must be submitted by the GSC on Wednesday, February 19, 1992. This is extremely short notice; if interested, you must apply TODAY, TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1992.

To apply, simply prepare a resume or curriculum vitae or anything at all with your name on it. Address, phone number, biographical data, and Coop-related interests on your name. Drop it off in Tom Quinn's mailbox in room 38-377 before 5:00 p.m. TODAY. You don't need to be fancy; nobody important will see whatever you submit (just Tom and some of his friends, and they're all dirtbags anyhow). We just need to know who's interested, why, and how long they could serve on the Coop Board of Directors. Sorry for the short notice.

ASK ABOUT OUR HEART CAMPAIGN

After your education comes action... because as a new grad you're out to change the world. At Mentor Graphics Corporation, you can. As the pacesetter in Electronic Design Automation, we are changing the way the world designs. We're busily advancing our focus on software solutions to a more powerful emphasis on systems solutions. At the heart of this approach is our flexible framework using C++, which supports concurrent design methodologies from the entire development cycle. We work with people with a stable, yet progressive history and our $40 million in revenue and resources. In turn, we look for that same spirit as we add new talent to our engineering staff. If you are up to the challenge, meet with us during our campus presentation and find out more about the opportunities at MGC.

Typical opportunities exist for:

SOFTWARE DEVELOPMENT & SOFTWARE SUPPORT ENGINEERS.
