Institute," he said. Ciacci also added that the Commencement Committee "was looking for someone in Congress, and Aspin is very accomplished in that respect.

The general opinion among seniors seems split. "I've been reading about Congressman Aspin for a long time now. Coming from MIT, he's risen to prominence and is reayl a good role model for students," said Roopa H. Mehendele '92.

Craig W. Griffin '92 agreed. "It might be interesting to hear from Aspin's perspective on how MIT will be affected by the changes in military spending and how MIT is adjusting now that the Cold War is over," he said.

Some students, however, were dispersing. "I was looking that Sen. Al Gore (D-Tenn.) was going to speak -thats who I asked for," said Christopher M. Rein '92. Rein added that Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton would also "have been a c better choice.

Joshua M. Holden '92 was in full agreement with Rein. "We don't need a defense man to speak at commencement. Al Gore would have been a much better choice-he's a technologically gray. Holden added that some students "probably knows even less" of Aspin. One student even commented that her parents were pleased with the choice. "My dad can't wait to come here to hear him speak," said Barbara A. Slagmold '92. "He's been bugging me about who was going to be chosen, and is finally off my back because he's psyched about the choice," she said.

URI Police Arrest APhi Imposter For Larceny

Before she went to Alpha Phi, Sargent stayed at PBG for four nights. She called at 3:30 a.m. and said she was stranded in Boston on her way to Jamaica," said Michael M. Tse '92, president of PBG. "A couple from friends invited her to stay.

Tso said it took two days to find any inconsistencies in Sargent's story. "She said her mother was having a liver transplant and that she called because a friend of hers had a boyfriend who knew someone at the house.

"Later she said she was going to visit her little sister at Alpha Phi, then leave. She called to make air line reservations, but I called several airlines and none of them had reservations for her," he said.

"She had her birth certificate with her," Tso said. "The name [on the certificate] was Lisa Georgia Ryder. It was Canadian," he added.

"She was a good liar — very intelligent and quick on her feet," he Prosecution possible

Scruggs said Sargent is being brought to court for her URI charges on April 8. "If she shows up, she'll be arrested and prosecuted in Boston," she said.

Scruggs said the Boston police told her Sargent has a history similar behavior. "She's 29 and has been done this for 10 years. She went a year and a half in jail in Canada for larceny. She's showed up at several schools — she went from school to school before each of t heir spring breaks.

"We're just really tired of talk-ning about it. We've basically turned it over to the police and are letting them do the work," she added.
