Right: This youngster, aboard the Eagle, is certainly on his way to being a midshipman at the U.S. Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn.

Below: The tall ships make for a spectacular sight along the waterfront at the Black Falcon Cruise Terminal, off Summer Street in Boston.

Above: The Russian barque Krusenstern attracts a crowd at the Black Falcon Cruise Terminal. The Krusenstern hails from Kaliningrad, and is over 270 feet long.

Right: The rigging of one of the masts of the Eagle, a 296-foot barque.