Coop President, Jeremiah P. Murphy, announced on behalf of the Harvard Cooperative Society’s Board of Directors, that the annual percentage rebate for the year which ended June 1992 is 1.1%.

Established in 1982, The Harvard Cooperative Society is the nation’s oldest bookstore cooperative. The Coop serves the academic community with stores in Harvard Square, Kendall Square and at the Medical Center on Longwood Avenue. Other branch stores are located at Harvard Law School and Business School and in the Straton Center on the campus at MIT.

Coop President, Jeremiah P. Murphy, announced on behalf of the Harvard Cooperative Society’s Board of Directors, that the annual percentage rebate for the year which ended June 1992 is 1.1%.

Members will be able to pick up their rebate checks at the M.I.T. Coop at Kendall Square, Cashiers Office, Lower Level beginning October 14, 1992, or at other Coop stores if prior arrangements have been made.

The Coop

Avenue. Other branch stores are located at Harvard Law School and Business Bookstore Cooperative. The Coop serves the academic community with stores been made.

July 1, 1991 and June 30, 1992. Members will be able to pick up their rebate checks at the M.I.T. Coop at Kendall Square, Cashiers Office, Lower Level beginning October 14, 1992, or at other Coop stores if prior arrangements have been made.

Over fifty people view last night’s presidential debate on the fifth floor of the Student Center. As an informal poll after the debate found support for Bush, Clinton, and Perot among the audience at 8, 43, and 65 viewers, respectively, with 5 undecided.

Raustein’s Alleged Assailants Arraigned in Superior Court

Because the suspects are charged with felonies, another arrangement was necessary to move the cases to Superior Court.

October 22 MIT becomes home to the newly-established Dibner Institute for the History of Science and Technology and the Bunny Labs, one of the world’s premier private collections of historical scientific books, manuscripts, instruments and works of art. A dedication ceremony will be held at the headquarters of the Dibner Institute and Bunny Library in Building E65.

The New England Aquarium announces the 1992 Lowell Lecture Series, "Seabirds of Hawaii: Natural History and Conservation." The presentation is free, at 7:45 p.m. in the Auditorium of the Aquarium. Please mail reservation requests to Lowell Lectures, New England Aquarium, Central Wharf, Boston, MA 02110.

The New England Aquarium will host an annual international meeting entitled The Brain. The day-long program will focus on showing eighth and ninth grade students the careers available to them if they continue in math and science. If you would like to volunteer to lead a workshop, please mail your name and telephone number to: Tech, MIT, 98 E405, 253-1340.

October 26 Simmons College will hold a semi-annual meeting entitled"The Brain" at the Brain Science Center, Simmons College, 140-145 Beacon Street, Boston, MA 02215. For more information, call 617-353-3000.

October 29 The New England Aquarium announces the Lowell Lecture Series, "The Spirit of the Great Lakes. Metaphor for the Endangered World." The presentation is free, at 7:45 p.m. in the Aquarium’s auditorium. Please call 253-1245 or Prof. Judith Silverman (Room 9-214) for more information.

MIT’s Environmental Engineering Education and Research Center will be sponsoring a "Round Table for Youth Environmental Stooges" at MIT. The day long program will focus on showing eighth and ninth grade students the careers available to those who continue in math and science. If you would like to volunteer to lead a workshop, please call 253-1340.

November 4 Lecture Dr. David K. Sloaner, professor of biology, neurosciences, and pediatrics at McGill University in Canada, will speak on changing perspectives on cerebral health, genetics, and the environment in the public lecture sponsored by the Whitaker Institute for Biomedical Research at E:30 a.m. in room 251. For more information, call 253-1340.

October 22 MIT becomes home to the newly-established Dibner Institute for the History of Science and Technology and the Bunny Labs, one of the world’s premier private collections of historical scientific books, manuscripts, instruments and works of art. A dedication ceremony will be held at the headquarters of the Dibner Institute and Bunny Library in Building E65.

The New England Aquarium announces the 1992 Lowell Lecture Series, "Seabirds of Hawaii: Natural History and Conservation." The presentation is free, at 7:45 p.m. in the Auditorium of the Aquarium. Please mail reservation requests to Lowell Lectures, New England Aquarium, Central Wharf, Boston, MA 02110.

The New England Aquarium will host a semi-annual meeting entitled "The Brain" at the Brain Science Center, Simmons College, 140-145 Beacon Street, Boston, MA 02215. For more information, call 617-353-3000.

October 26 Simmons College will hold a semi-annual meeting entitled "The Brain" at the Brain Science Center, Simmons College, 140-145 Beacon Street, Boston, MA 02215. For more information, call 617-353-3000.

October 29 The New England Aquarium announces the Lowell Lecture Series, "The Spirit of the Great Lakes. Metaphor for the Endangered World." The presentation is free, at 7:45 p.m. in the Aquarium’s auditorium. Please call 253-1245 or Prof. Judith Silverman (Room 9-214) for more information.

MIT’s Environmental Engineering Education and Research Center will be sponsoring a "Round Table for Youth Environmental Stooges" at MIT. The day long program will focus on showing eighth and ninth grade students the careers available to those who continue in math and science. If you would like to volunteer to lead a workshop, please call 253-1340.

November 4 Lecture Dr. David K. Sloaner, professor of biology, neurosciences, and pediatrics at McGill University in Canada, will speak on changing perspectives on cerebral health, genetics, and the environment in the public lecture sponsored by the Whitaker Institute for Biomedical Research at E:30 a.m. in room 251. For more information, call 253-1340.