At QUALCOMM,
you get your own office
and set your own hours.

"Then you get to prove you're worth it."

－Charlie Sakamoto joined QUALCOMM in early 1991 right after graduating from M.I.T. with a BSEE and MSEE. A hardware engineer, Charlie is an ASIC designer for our Vocoder ASIC.

What kind of company works like that? Find out for yourself.

Attend a special preview of the QUALCOMM story at 5:00 PM, October 20, Rm. 4-153
the night before our on-campus interviews.

It’s interesting what happens when you give extraordinary people an extraordinary amount of autonomy and support. They innovate like crazy. Then their company takes off and grows like very few others have.
Case in point. San Diego’s own QUALCOMM. We’ve gone from 8 employees in 1985 to over 700 today. That makes us one of America’s fastest growing high-tech companies.
It also doesn’t hurt to have the company launched by communications visionaries like Dr. Irwin
M. Jacobs and Dr. Andrew J. Viterbi.

The trick, of course, is to keep the entrepreneurial spirit flourishing despite phenomenal growth.
That’s why we give our engineers as much freedom and encouragement as possible. This includes an open door policy company-wide, the latitude to set your own hours, the private space provided by your own office, and more.

In response, QUALCOMM people have spearheaded many of our industry’s most challenging technologies. Among them are spread-spectrum CDMA digital cellular telephone systems, mobile satellite communication networks, HDTV image compression, full custom ASIC design, and more.

We’ll throw you in the ocean—free.
Along with a highly stimulating work environment, you’ll also enjoy the Southern California lifestyle, which features one of America’s most temperate climates. And QUALCOMM is less than a mile from the Pacific Ocean.

If you’re working towards a degree in Electrical/Electronics Engineering, Computer Science,
